MOREHOUSE ELECTED.

Returns From Northern Counties Show It.

L. C. Morehouse, the Republican candidate for the State Board of Equalization from this district, has certainly been elected according to the reports received from various points. He is well deserving of his triumph, because of the faithful services he has rendered the district in the past. He has lots of friends in Oakland, who will rejoice to learn of his success.

He loses Alameda county by about 600 votes. This has been due to the fact that he ran against Wells of Dublin, a popular Democrat who had also received the endorsement of the A. P. A.

In San Joaquin county, Morehouse is away ahead of Wells, as shown by the following dispatch:

STOCKTON, November 8.—Thirty-nine precincts give Morehouse, 2111; Wells, 1754. Eleven small precints to hear from.

The following comes from Sacramento:

SACRAMENTO, Cal., November 8.—The vote on Board of Equalization in fifty-six out of sixty-six precincts in full is: Lane, 254; Morehouse, 3398; Wells, 1996; Wheeler, 2025.

In El Dorado county Morehouse is known to be running well, although the following dispatch gives no light on the subject.

PLACERVILLE, Cal., November 8.—Budd received 29 majority over Estee. No returns for State Board of Equalization.

From Tuolumme county comes the following:

SONORA, November 8.—Vote not kept. Budd's majority about 350. Morehouse leads his ticket.

In Nevada County, Morehouse will get a majority of about 290, and he will also carry Amador and Calaveras counties.

Following is the latest from Contra Costa County:

"MARTINEZ, November 8, 1:51 P. M.—Morehouse, 1402; Wells, 1005, with three precincts to hear from.

"F. WILLIAMS."

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, November 8.—Full returns today confirm the election of all the six Democratic candidates for the Congress of Louisiana.

The sugar planters are understood to have had spotters in the three sugar districts.

Republicans are hopeful of getting Beatty, Kerloch and Coleman seated.

IT'S BUDD.

His Election Now Conceded by Everybody.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 8.—In the election for Mayor of San Francisco, as far as counted, Sutro has a plurality of 10,000 and is undoubtedly elected.

The count in California has progressed sufficiently to make Budd's election as Governor a certainty.

Justice Temple, Dem., is elected for the long term.

All the rest of the State ticket is Republican.

Maguire, Dem., is re-elected to Congress from the Fourth district.

The Republicans elect the other six Congressmen.

The State Legislature has a large majority (Republican) on joint ballot.

Throughout the country the Republicans have made a clean sweep, with pluralities not known since war times, and will undoubtedly control the House, and probably the Senate.

Very few returns have been received from any of the precincts in California this morning, and there is practically no change in the result as tabulated at a late hour last night.

That tabulation included complete returns from 1325 precincts out of a total of 2274 precincts in the State.

The result on vote for Governor was: Estee, 80,555; Budd, 83,960. Budd's plurality, 3,405.

Budd's plurality in this city is 11,226, while Estee's plurality in the 1032 precincts outside of San Francisco, which have been heard from is 7821.

There are still 949 precincts in the State outside of San Francisco to hear from and it is probable that Budd's net plurality of 3405, as it now stands at present, will be reduced by from one to two thousand when the returns are all in.

The Republicans have a safe majority in the Legislature, and have elected six of the seven Congressmen.

Stanton (Dem.) is elected in the Second Railroad district, and Clark (Rep.) in the Third Railroad district.

Larue (Dem.) is probably elected in the First Railroad district, though there are still more than half of the precincts in that district to be heard from.

KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, November 8.—The Star (Independent) figures John C. Tarsney, for Congress, has carried the Fifth district by a little over 500.

There is every prospect of a contest by Colonel Van Horn, Rep.

In the Second ward of Kansas City, 1548 votes were cast against 728 in the last presidential election.

It is claimed it can be proven there are not 1000 voters in the Second ward.

TOPEKA, Kas., November 8.—Latest figures show that Kansas has elected seven Republican Congressmen, and one Populist, Baker, Sixth district.

This district is so close that a contest is likely.

The Legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by about 35.

NEW YORK.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., November 8.—According to figures received thus far at Police Headquarters, the consolidation, as far as Brooklyn is concerned, has been lost by about 100 votes.

Counsellor Shanks, secretary of the Consolidation League, claims, however, the consolidation has been carried by a small majority.

It will make no difference whether the vote is found to be in favor or against, as the matter will have to go to the Legislature in any event.

The uncertainty about the Board of Aldermen was removed this afternoon by the police returns, which give the Republicans seventeen out of thirty-one members. The board will have the apportionment of the city Assembly districts.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional Committee received the following letter today from A. E. Holton, chairman of the Republican State Committee of North Carolina.

"We won a complete victory at the polls here yesterday.

"We elected the judicial ticket by an estimated majority of over 40,000 and have both branches of the Legislature with four Republican and three Populist Congressmen.

"The fight will have to be made tomorrow before the county canvassing boards.

"It will be necessary for us to employ counsel to appear before the canvassing boards in many counties.

"The Democrats say they have given up the State, but our best information is that they will appear before the boards tomorrow prepared to do all in their power."

Chairman Babcock has instructed Holton to employ all the counsel necessary to protect Republican rights.

Chairman Babcock now estimates there will be 225 Republicans in the next House.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Senator Faulkner concedes the Republicans have defeated Wilson in West Virginia and carried four Congressional districts and the Legislature.

A dispatch from Representative Maguire, announcing his election, is the only report from California.

COLORADO.

PUEBLO, November 8. — Thomas M.

Bowen (Rep.) is elected Congressman of the Second Colorado district. His majority over Bell (Pop.) is about 300.

DENVER, November 8.—In spite of a positive announcement from Pueblo, Thomas M. Bowen, Rep., is elected Congressman.

The result in the Second district still seems to be in doubt.

Returns, official and estimated received here from all counties in district, except two, give Bell, Pop., 2207 majority.

The Republicans will have seventeen majority on a joint ballot of the Legislature.

MISSOURI.

ST. LOUIS, November 8.—There is now almost no doubt that the Republican State ticket has been successful.

In comparison with two years ago the Republicans had a plurality of 20,661 to overcome.

Fifty-seven counties out of 114 show a net Republican gain of 18,729.

In the House of Representatives the Republicans have made gains enough to give them a joint ballot or majority but the Senate will remain Democratic.

In the Congressional districts it is now fairly established that the First (Hatch's), Fourth (Ellison's), Sixth (Dearmond's), Seventh (Heard's), Ninth (Champ Clark's), Thirteenth (Foxs's), Fourteenth (Arnold's), and Nineteenth (Morgan's) have been carried by the Republicans.

The Eighth (Bland's) is still in doubt; also the Third (Dockery's).

The Tenth and Eleventh, St. Louis, are Republican.

The only sure Democratic districts are the Second and Fifth and Twelfth.

The State Democratic Committee concedes the election of the Republican Legislature.

It also concedes the defeat on prima facie returns of R. P. Bland in the Eighth district by a plurality of 19 votes.

The committee still claims the re-election of Dockery in the Third by 300

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, Va., November 8.—The latest returns show the election of Democrats in all the Virginia Congressional districts except the ninth, where James E. Walker was successful.

ALABAMA.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., November 8.—Howard, Pop., has defeated, Delson, Dem., Seventh district. Returns of the First district indicate the election of Goodwin, Pop., over Judge Cobb, Dem.

TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, November 8.—The election for Governor has not been definitely settled.

The Republicans claim the election of Evans by 15,000 majority, while the Democrats claim Turney's election by 5000 to 7000.

A LIVELY THRONG.

Thousands Watch the "Tribune" Returns.

The complete count in Alameda county will not be concluded until tonight. The election board in precinct 3 of Berkeley is still hard at work. This is one of the largest precincts in the State. The men are all tired out and in consequence the count is progressing very slowly.

In precinct 7 of the Seventh ward the count is also very slow on account of the large number of votes cast.

For forty-eight hours THE TRIBUNE office has been stormed by anxious politicians and people interested in the election.

The arrangements made by THE TRIBUNE for handling the returns were most complete. On the building adjoining the office several large blackboards had been erected and in front of them were placed electric lights. The moment the returns came into the office they were figured up and the results were given to the public as the count progressed.

THIS method of giving the public the returns proved to be most satisfactory as was evidenced by the great crowd that was continually in front of THE TRIBUNE at all hours.

At one time there were over 3000 people watching the returns. The main interest in local matters was centered in the fight for Sheriff. McKillican was retired from the race early in the count as it was apparent that he was a poor third. White took the lead and kept it until last night. The Schaffer men had practically given up the contest after the first night's returns had been bulletined.

However, when THE TRIBUNE showed the vote of the county up to 10 o'clock last night there was a decided change in the feelings of the Schaffer men. The spark of hope was fanned into flame, and they came around eager to catch all returns.

Schaffer took the lead by thirty-eight votes at eleven o'clock last night, and at midnight he was again passed by White.

The crowd remained in front of THE TRIBUNE office until after 1 o'clock this morning. They stayed just as long as there was a figure to be obtained. Some were enthusiastic and others were disheartened. Some gave vent to their feelings in cheers when they found that their favorite was in the lead. In the early part of the night the cheering was frequent as Schaffer and White seesawed in the contest to serve the people.

This morning the crowd turned up early in front of THE TRIBUNE to hear the latest news on the Sheriff's fight. White still had the lead in the race and the Schaffer men again lost confidence.

Considerable interest was taken in the fight for Superintendent of Schools, and the returns on this office were eagerly sought by the friends of the candidates. Garlick took the lead at the start of the count and he kept it until yesterday when he was passed by Frick. This morning the latter was still in the lead, but his friends were not particularly confident. They kept posted right along, however, by THE TRIBUNE returns.

The great crowd also showed much interest in the race between Laymance, Herrscher and Sanford for Treasurer. The fight at the start seemed to be centered between Laymance and Herrscher. The former took the lead and kept in first place right along. Sanford, the Populist, came up with a rush last night and displayed such force as to be a dangerous competitor for Laymance. The Populists became enthusiastic over the prospects of winning two of the big offices of the county. They eagerly watched THE TRIBUNE bulletin boards all day long in order to keep posted on the situation.

The system used in producing results in THE TRIBUNE office was a most complete one and was so arranged that the public was kept advised of every contest right along just as the complete and partial returns came in. Men were at work night and day on the charts, and had their work done to such a fine point that it was an easy matter for them to give totals on every office in the county so far as the count had progressed.

This morning being the second day after election, the crowd was still on deck to hear the latest returns from all sources. They were kept advised of the situation right along.

THE TRIBUNE not only displayed local returns, but it was the first to give bulletins concerning the elections all over the country. Not only that, but the public was kept fully advised as to how the election progressed in San Francisco. In fact, the service was most complete in every regard and the people showed their appreciation by their presence.

Until late this afternoon the crowd remained in front of the office seeking information on the close contests.

FORGOT THE FRONT.

Strange Result of a Defect in a Deed.

"It is not often that a man neglects to buy the front entrance when he buys himself a home," said ex-Judge Dittenhoefer recently to a group of legal friends, who were retailing professional anecdotes, "but that is precisely what a friend of mine did—and he paid dearly for that front door when he did acquire it.

"I was in my office one afternoon when my friend B came in, and after the exchange of the compliments of the day he remarked:

"'Judge, I've bought me a new home out on West One Hundred and Twenty-third street.'

"'That's good,' I replied. 'Did you get a bargain?'

"'Oh, pretty fair! At least I thought I had; but I'm not so sure now. I can't get in the front door.'

"'What do you mean?'

"'The man I bought from refuses to give me the key to the front door, and I can't get in and out only by the back way.'

"'What reason does he give for acting in that manner?'

"'He says I didn't buy the front of the house, and he is not going to let me in that way.'

"'Have you got your deed all right?' he asked.

"'Oh, yes. That's all right.'

"'Well, you bring it down tomorrow and let me look it over.'

"The next morning B. appeared with the deed, which, in a casual glance, appeared to be in correct form. But, on examining the description of the property by metes and bounds, I discovered a curious omission. The point of beginning was at the junction of the street line and the westerly boundary line, running thence to the north boundary, to the east boundary, and then to the street, and stopped there. Hence the frontage, or easement, not being described, was not conveyed.

"And thus, while B. was the legal owner of the rest of the house, the frontage was technically the property of the other fellow, and he had a right to carry the latch key, smoke his pipe on the front stoop, and put on all the airs of master of the house, while B. could only sneak in through the back door.

"Whether the omission was intentional or not was impossible to find out. But it was quickly made plain that the technical owner of the front stoop meant to profit by the accident, if accident it was. On interviewing him he calmly remarked that the frontage was his and he meant to claim it. Being threatened with a suit and the assurance that a court of equity would compel the correction of the deed, he replied: 'Fire away!'

Finally, rather than to have the property tied up in the courts possibly for two years, I advised B. to compromise the matter if he could, and by the payment of $500 he acquired undoubted right to the latch key of his own front door."—New York Herald.

A College President Sent Up for Ninety-nine Years.

St Louis Globe-Democrat.

TEXARKANA, Ark., October 21.—The case of Professor G. L. Bryant, charged with the murder of Professor George T. Ellis, on trial in Boston, was concluded at 11 o'clock last night, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty and fixing the punishment at ninety-nine years in the Penitentiary. Bryant was President of the Texarkana State Normal and Business College and Ellis was formerly a teacher in the school. About five months ago they quarrelled and Ellis proceeded to set up a rival school. Bryant became insanely jealous and set about hounding Ellis in the most annoying manner, and finally wound up by killing him in the local yard of the Cotton Belt Railroad just one month ago.

THURSDAY.....NOVEMBER 8, 1894

THE Solid South is no more. The political revolution of Tuesday has swept Missouri into the Republican line.

THE decision of the Fifty-third Congress regarding the contest in the Third Congressional District in California has been reversed by the people at the polls in favor of Samuel G. Hilborn.

THE contest over the Surievalty in Alameda county and the election of the Populist nominee, White, is one of the curiosities of the workings of the Australian ballot and the independence of voters.

MOST of the Democratic Congressmen who figured in the Fifty-third Congress as advocates of tariff reform will be conspicuous in the Fifty-fourth Congress because of their absence. They have been snowed under.

ALL the States that have been dickering with Populists, excepting Nebraska, are abandoning the political incongruity. Nebraska has apparently nursed it through another election, because of local differences among Republicans.

THE disruption of organized vagrancy is one of the local measures needing prompt attention. It may be necessary to revive the chain gang to do it, but healthy able-bodied men who do not and will not work, and have no other means of existence excepting that which is represented in an organized system of begging, ought to be put to work.

A Courageous Dominie's Crusade.

When the New York divine, Dr. Parkhurst, began his crusade against vice and corruption in New York, he did it with so much theatrical display that some people doubted his sincerity and suspected that he was bidding for public attention and not seriously endeavoring to bring about a reform in the affairs of the municipal government. The corruptionists, toward whom Dr. Parkhurst directed his shafts, encouraged this view of his course. They pooh-poohed and ridiculed it. But the dominie would not desist. He was in dead earnest. He descended into the dives and slums of the great metropolis and gathered materials for his crusade from the lips of the victims of those who had been fattening on their degradation and immoralities. The evidences which he presented of the guilt of those occupying high places in the metropolitan government through the grace of Tammany Hall were so strong and convincing that the State Senate was forced to take cognizance of the bold crusader's arraignments. Then followed the appointment of the Lexow Senate Committee of Investigation.

Like all Senate committees the Lexow Committee was equipped with extraordinary powers. It was untrammeled by any rules of evidence. It had all the authority of any court as to compelling the attendance of witnesses; and it had powers which courts do not possess, namely, the granting of immunity to witnesses from the effects of their own evidence. The country is familiar with the astounding revelations of crime and corruption involving men in authority in the Police Department of New York which the investigation has already brought to light. These exposures uncovered Tammany Hall and its agents. The sachems of the great political piece club thought at one time that they were in personal danger, and they sought safe cover like hunted quail. But the committee preferred to proceed against the citadel of New York corruption by indirection rather than by direct assault, and it is getting there with the certainty of fate. It has reached one of the Police Commissioners, and it has so sharpened the public wit and conscience that a political revolution has been brought about at the election held this week. The way is now clear for thorough work. Morton's immense plurality of 150,000, due to a large extent to the Lexow revelations, has not only swept Hill into innocuous political desuetude, but it has also driven out of the metropolitan service Tammany's creatures. There will, therefore, be no further obstruction to the course of the committee.

The political purification which will surely follow promises to be greater than that already achieved. Goff, the brave counsel of the Lexow Committee, has been elected Recorder. Evildoers will not have a Maynard or a Barnard to deal with when they come before him for trial and judgment. Barnard gave Tweed and Tammany immunity in the prosecution of their crimes. Maynard showed his capacity for similar work. Hill has paid the just penalty of his loyalty to Maynard and to Tammany.

The political atmosphere of the nation may be said to have been purified by the result in New York. Not since the days of the complete downfall of Boss Tweed and the Canal Ring has anything occurred in the political history of the nation which will be so far reaching in its good effects as the snowing under of Hill and of ex-Mayor Grant and the destruction of Tammany. The nation is Dr. Parkhurst's debtor. His crusade against vice in New York has borne better fruit than he ever dreamed of harvesting.

How California Has Gone.

The counting of the votes cast in California last Tuesday is not yet finished, but we can determine with almost absolute certainty how the result affects each candidate. While there is scarcely room for a doubt that the head of the Republican ticket has been defeated by a small plurality, the major part of the ticket has been elected with handsome majorities. Six of the seven Congressmen elected are also Republican, Maguire of San Francisco, being the only Democrat that will return to Washington. The Legislature is also no doubt Republican, although the interest in legislative candidates has occupied only a secondary place, apparently, in the public mind since the polls closed Tuesday night.

California is, therefore, fairly entitled to be classified in the Republican column of States. Even the most sanguine and enthusiastic Democrat can not set up a counter claim.

Estee's defeat is to be regretted. Budd will no doubt make a good Governor. He is young and doubtless ambitious of making a good record. But Estee has had such a wide experience in public affairs that his services at the head of the State Government would have been invaluable. It is not difficult to find the influence that accomplished his defeat. Elements were introduced into the campaign at its close, ostensibly in his interest, which ought not to have found a place in the contest. They were personal and of the past, having had their day and been disposed of elsewhere. The personal attack made upon Budd helped his cause and hurt Estee in a corresponding degree. The same may be said of the attacks made on Millard, whose majority for Lieutenant-Governor was thereby increased. There were other elements at work circumventing the election of Estee which the public will more clearly discern after the excitement incident to the election has cooled off. Under ordinary conditions, and without the baneful influences of special unfriendly agencies, the vote for Estee and Millard ought to have been at least equal.

But the manner of the voting at the last election constitutes an interesting study. It contains many new and curious features. It reveals the mental workings of the people of the commonwealth when given the freedom to act which the secret ballot guarantees to them.

NOW THAT Adolph Sutro has been elected Mayor of San Francisco many of the men who ardently opposed his election are coming to the front with advice as to the manner in which he shall run the government. Sutro must smile at these gratuitous offerings of the men who would have rejoiced over his defeat, and he will no doubt place a just estimate on their value. Any one who knows Sutro and has watched his career for the past twenty-five years or more knows that Sutro will be Mayor in fact as well as in name, will make his own plans and likewise carry them out. Sutro is not a man to submit to the chafing of any leading strings. He will be the most independent Mayor the metropolis has ever had, and he will also be one of its best Mayors, or the entire nature of the man will undergo a change.

THE people have chosen a pure and able judiciary, Judges Henshaw and Temple having been elected for the long terms, and Justice Van Fleet for the short term. While Judge Torrance of San Diego was strong in the southern counties, he had not been long enough in the State to be well enough known north of Tehachapi to enable him to overcome the popularity of so distinguished a jurist as Judge Temple. Alameda county is honored in the magnificent vote which was cast for Judge Henshaw, and his career on the bench in this county warrants the cherishing of great expectations regarding his career on the Supreme bench.

THE time for Governor Waite of Colorado to ride up to the bridle bit in gore is passing by rapidly. He will soon retire to the harmlessness and obscurity of private life. The State has said it will have no more of him.

THE election of Levi P. Morton to the Governorship of New York by a plurality of 150,000 has introduced to the country a formidable candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1896.

MRS. MARY E. LEASE is enjoying the sweet fruits of revenge over Governor Lewelling's early retirement to private life, as a result of Tuesday's election.

THE Budd has, sure enough, blossomed after all. The question still remaining to be answered is, Will it come up to promise?

THOMAS B. REED of Maine will wield the gavel again in the new House of Representatives. That was settled on Tuesday.

RANDOM NOTES.

A forty pound baby has been born down in Georgia.

Peruvian bandits have looted the Harvard observatory at Arequippa and carried off all the astronomical instruments.

Every Japanese barrack has a gymnasium, and the Japanese soldiers rank among the best gymnasts in the world. In half a minute they can scale a fourteen foot wall by simply bounding on each other's shoulders, one man supporting two or three others.

Baron Albert De Rothschild has just given $250,000 to build and equip a pavilion in the Empress Elizabeth Hospital at Vienna for women suffering from cancer. The money constitutes a "Bettina" fund, called after the Baron's late wife, who died after terrible suffering from this disease.

The Mikado has never, willingly, been photographed.

It is said that the longest game of chess on record required between five and six years to play. One player was in this country and the other in Australia.

A belt in one of the big flouring mills at Minneapolis contains 200 cowhides. It is 260 feet long and weighs over a ton.

Herman Gottschalk of New York owns the oldest and most valuable coin in the world. It is one of two "holy shekels" now in existence, the other belonging to the British Museum. They are relics of Solomon's time. So much more perfect is Mr. Gottschalk's coin that the British Museum once offered to exchange and add $1000 cash, but Mr. Gottschalk refused the offer.

A few years ago a portion of the pavement in Grosswell road, London, was lifted out of its place in some mysterious way. Before the workmen were sent to replace it numerous toadstools made their appearance in the cracks between the misplaced stone and its fellows. Investigation proved that the stone, which was two feet one way by four the other, and weighed 212 pounds, had actually been lifted out of place by the resistless growing force of these soft, spongy fungi.

Some months ago an English manufacturer made a number of experiments to determine the best method of illuminating his cloth mills. Gas jets, incandescent lamps, and arc lights were all tried and found wanting, as they either failed to give light enough, gave too much light, or cast heavy shadows. Finally a continental idea was adopted. The walls of a room were painted white and under each of a number of arc lights was suspended a reflector, which threw all the light up to the white ceiling, from which it was reflected to the room below. This system was successful from the outset, and has attracted considerable attention among English weavers.

GOT THERE JUST THE SAME.

First he run for Congress;
Beat him out o' that;
Also fifty dollars,

Next he run for Sheriff;

OUR VERSATILE LANGUAGE.

The Frenchman asked an English paper-maker what he was making.

"A yard," was the reply.

"How much have you got done?" was the next question.

"A yard."

"Where did it come from?"

"The yard."

And the Frenchman was very much surprised at the lucidity of the answers, and amazed at the simplicity of our language.—Leisure Hours.

Her Photograph.

You are posing for a lassie,
But I vow you are an elf.
On the morn that you were taken
How the sun enjoyed himself!
Lucky Sol! I feel quite certain
That he turned an azure hue
When he couldn't catch the color
Of your winsome eyes of blue.

I gaze upon your features;
Fairer none will ever find.
I'm glad that I'm not Cupid,
For you know that Cupid's blind.
Do you like my jest? You're smiling.
Pretty picture, let us laugh.
I am tempted much to kiss you,
Oh, you witching photograph!

All the world proclaims you charming;
I can well believe it so.
Yet there is a look about you
Wakes my pity for the beaux.
You mock them when their hearts ache,
And their wounds you scorn to heal;
And you're lacking in compassion
For the pangs you never feel.

Alas, I'm growing solemn.
And you're much too sweet to scold;
Who could blame a pretty blossom
That it is not sad and old!
Like the roses and the lilies,
You were born the earth to grace;
And the men, like silly mothlings
Should be taught their humble place.

It is theirs to kneel before you,
It is yours to be adored;
But the beaux are stupid beings,
And I'm sure you're often bored.
So for fear I, too, may bore you,
Just a wish and then adieu;
May the skies that beam above you
Match your winsome eyes of blue!

NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Bridal silver is no longer de rigueur for wedding presents. Many engaged couples have let their friends know their preference for plated ware, which is now so elaborate and beautiful, and involves less care and anxiety. Simple, useful, family silver is, of course, always acceptable, but the multiplicity of costly plate is only a temptation to the burglar and a worry to the housewife. Checks, indeed, are growing in favor as the most convenient wedding present to give or to receive, and have the prestige of being "quite "English" form. There is no nonsense about them and instead of a $10 present that looks as good as $20, but can only be sold for $5, the check is much more acceptable.

A small sachet of powdered orris root kept in each of the bureau drawers will give one's belongings the fresh odor that is infinitely above mere perfume.

It is as bad for the hair to brush it with a soiled brush as it would be for the skin to use soiled towels upon it. The hair-brush should be cleaned once a week in water and ammonia. If it is dried quickly before the fire it will not lose the stiffness which is the main requisite for a good hair-brush.

The hair will dry much more quickly after it has been washed if it is rubbed with warm towels than with merely dry ones. As fast as one becomes damp it should be thrown aside and a fresh, dry, warm, one taken. When the hair is moderately dry after this, it should be brushed quite dry with warm brushes. This method imparts a lustre to the hair which nothing else gives.

If there is a disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning a dose of powdered charcoal will remove it. It is wise occasionally to brush the teeth with a mixture of powdered charcoal and orris root, which is both whitening and preserving in its effects. Charcoal is of too coarse a grain, however, for daily use. A semi-occasional polishing with powdered pumice-stone made into a paste with water is also good for the teeth, but used with frequency it scratches the enamel.

The woman who, at the close of the day, brushes her hair, washes her neck and face with hot water and lies down for five minutes will have a much better appetite and will be a much brighter person at the dinner table than one who neglects these rejuvenating processes.

A FAMOUS YEAR.

Distinguished Men Who Were Born in 1809.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was born on August 29, 1809. William E. Gladstone was born on December 29, 1809. That is a famous year in biography. Charles Darwin was born on February 12, 1809. Edgar Allan Poe was born on February 19. Alfred Tennyson was born in the same year; so was Pierre Joseph Proudhon, the French social philosopher. It is a year famous in the annals of military history, too, for Marshal Canrobert, the surviving French Marshal, was born in that year; so was Leonard O'Donnell, the Spanish General; so was Frederick von Buest, the Austrian statesman; whose power in German affairs was eclipsed at Sadowa. The Italian statesman, Ricasoli, was born in Florence on March 9, 1809. Park Benjamin, who died in 1864, was born in the same year. For Americans it will always be memorable as the year in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

The death of Dr. Holmes has called up a flood of reminiscences on the subject of old men. Titian, the Italian painter, was 100 years old when he died at Cadore, Italy. Donaldo, when past 90 and utterly blind, stormed Constantinople. Isaac Newton was president of the Royal Society at the age of 83, and Landor finished his "Imaginary Conversations" at the age of 80. Brougham was a debater at 80, and Lyndhurst, when over 90, spoke in the House of Lords. Franklin was Governor of Pennsylvania at the age of 82. Marshal McMahon was 85 when he died. Neal Dow is now in his 90th year. David Dudley Field was 89 when he died. Chevreul, the French chemist, was 102 when he died in 1889. Cassius M. Clay, now living in Kentucky, is 84. Hamilton Fish, Governor, United States Senator, and Secretary of State, was another of the famous men born in 1809.

Troy Times.

A naval officer once found he could not teach the youngest men in the naval academy not to squirm and start and jump and plug their ears with their fingers when the heavy cannon were fired. It was of no use to argue with them, pleadings were in vain and reproofs were useless. It was highly ridiculous to have a lot of young men, whose profession it is to make war when war is needed, act like schoolgirls when the sea artillery was in noisy operation.

Finally the officer hit upon a plan. He had a camera "trained" upon his gallant cadets without their knowing it, and then he ordered broadside after broadside to be fired. The noise was thunderous, and the actions of the cadets were, as usual, most undignified and most unwarlike. A few days later some excellent photographs of the "young-men-afraid-of-a-noise" were hung in prominent positions to be a perpetual reproach to those who plugged their ears. These photographs did their work. The next time the cannon roared the cadets stood like statues carved from stone, petrified with their fear of the "deadly camera" and its brutal frankness.

DO YOU DYE?

Strange Fads Women Have With Their Hair.

Coloring Changes Almost Like Hat Styles.

How a Woman's Tresses Turned Green by Mistake.

What has become of all the gray, brick-red and drab-colored hair commonly seen a few years ago? asks a New York World reporter.

Bleaching and dyeing the hair dates all the way back to the days when Cleopatra commanded her alchemist to prepare something that would change her black hair to a shimmering red. Women have been out with a search light ever since to find something which would change the natural color of their hair to one which they like better. But it has only been during the past quarter of a century that the practice has become common.

Several years ago the craze for blonde hair threatened to make the bleached woman the terror of the nineteenth century. In consequence of that craze it is a rare thing today to see a woman's hair which has not many shades. And all as a result of using peroxide of hydrogen.

A few days ago a reporter spent some hours in one of the fashionable establishments devoted to gratifying women's whims on the subject of their hair. It is a lofty suite of rooms in a big building on Fifth avenue. The reception room, like the parlors devoted to women's complexions, is a symphony. The windows are draped with white dimity, while the furnishing is blue demin and white enamel. Great waving palms in blue Doulton jars are distributed with studied indifference. The walls are a cool medley of blue and white cesigne. White enamel cabinets are filled with bits of blue china.

On the walls in white enamel frames hang pictures of celebrated actresses willing to testify to the satisfactory treatment their own heads have undergone. On either side are mysterious inclosures draped with blue demin, where bashful visitors can consult with the high priestess of the blue and white shrine as to the most becoming shade of hair. Altogether it is a delightfully cool and restive spot. There is just enough of the mysterious about it to appeal to every woman's innate love for that sort of thing.

Passing through a room at one end a suite of operating rooms is reached. Here, on dressing tables draped with white, are innumerable and mysterious bottles—mysterious because they bear no descriptive labels—while the 1, 2, 3 and 4, as they are numbered, are intelligible only to the Titian-headed operators.

But as the hot and anxious customer sinks in a chair that seems to be a succession of luxurious springs she forgets to be anxious. All that she cares to know is that by some mystic process the bleached hair, which has become detestable to her, or the gray hair, which shows that she is not as young as she once was, is soon to be restored to its natural color or something more desirable. And of this the attendant constantly assures her.

The high priestess was once upon a time good looking. The most noticeable thing about her today is her hair, which is a shade unknown in the catalogue of color. With the politeness of the spider which invited the fly into its parlor she told the reporter to be seated. Being told that the reporter desired to have a different color of hair from the one bestowed by nature credit is certainly due her for the advice she gave.

"Your hair is neither gray nor dingy, and I would advise you to leave it alone," she said. Then she was called away and the reporter was left to glance around.

A MOTLEY MEDLEY.

The room was filled with women. An interesting feature about the visitors was that the majority of them wore heavy silk veils, although the day was intensely warm. Those having made previous appointments darted out of the elevator and back to the operating rooms with a haste that betokened their fear of recognition. The only names by which the majority of them were called were: "Mrs. Brown," "Mrs. Gray," "Mrs. White," or "Mrs. Black." The greatest secrecy was preserved about their correct names, the operators naming them usually according to the natural color of their hair. A well-known society woman and beauty whose Titian hair is the admiration of her friends was called "Mrs. Gray." The inference of the name is ominous.

The process of changing the hair from one color to another is a slow and tedious one, rarely taking less than a day. The hair is divided into thin strands and the various lotions applied to each strand with a tooth brush.

The high priestess had been called to talk with a fine looking woman of about 40 years of age, accompanied by a bright little girl of 14 or thereabouts, with the warmest shade of red hair.

"But I really advise you not to," the high priestess conscientiously remarked.

"I know it," answered the lady, with a look of despair. "But what am I to do? I can do nothing with her. I have promised her a pair of ponies and a carriage if she will only give up the idea. Now, do be sensible, Gladys. You hear what this lady advises," turning to her daughter.

"I don't care if you give me the whole city," was the reply. "I will have my hair dyed or else I will never go to school again. The girls have called me 'Carrots' for the last time." And the young woman looked as though she meant what she said.

"You see, it is no use," said the mother. "She worries me to death, and I suppose she must have it done."

And following the high priestess, who shrugged her shoulders expressively, the mother and daughter disappeared behind the curtains leading to the operating room.

Around the room were several ladies waiting while samples of their hair were being colored to see if they liked the shade. An attendant with a pair of scissors would cut a strand from their heads in some place where it would not be missed. Then she would disappear. In a quarter of an hour she would reappear with the changed sample.

"Do you really think it will be becoming?" That was the invariable question as the altered sample was laid on the natural hair.

One woman of fifty or more was waiting with an anxious expression on her face. She had just emerged from the operating room, and from the crisp, bright appearance of her hair had just left the operator's hands. A lady about ten years younger stepped out of the elevator. From the resemblance they must have been sisters.

"Do you like it?" anxiously inquired the elder.

"Well, it's your affair, but anyone could see your hair was dyed," was the response.

"Oh, heavens, Jane, don't say that! Oh, what will John and the children say?" exclaimed the first as they stepped into the elevator.

"I suppose you have many curious experiences here," remarked the reporter, as the high priestess re-entered.

GREEN HAIR.

"Most curious and most amusing," was the reply. "Sometimes they are almost tragical. Did you see that young woman in gray who just went out? She came here a week ago with the worst-looking head I ever saw. She has just told me that I have saved her life's happiness. A friend induced her during her husband's absence to have her hair bleached.

"After it was done the woman became frightened about her husband seeing her head on his return. She insisted upon having it dyed. The same person who bleached it dyed it, with the result that antagonistic chemicals turned her hair green. She was in despair, and came in here to see if we could remedy the fearful consequence of her folly, the people who had damaged her hair having advised her to cut it off.

"She was like a crazy woman and kept crying: 'You must do something. My husband will be back in a few days and I dare not let him see my hair. He will never accept me. Oh, what shall I do?' Well, to make a long story short, after a number of treatments her hair has been restored. When it was over she threw her arms around the operator's neck and said: 'I can never thank you enough. You can never know what this means to me.'"

A blue and white china clock tolled out 6 just as the red-headed girl, transformed into a delightful auburn-haired miss, emerged from the operating rooms. The reporter went down in the elevator with her and her mother.

"Oh, Gladys, if your father discovers it he will be so angry with me," said the mother in an undertone."

"I don't care if he is," was the reply. "All I care for is that the girls can't call me 'Carrots' any more."

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder in Strength and Value 20 Per Cent. Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial fairs, where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examination for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department of Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent, greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

How the Helena Mines Were Found.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat

The mines which built the city of Helena in Montana were discovered by a party of four prospectors who were on their way to a well-known camp in the Kootenai country. Learning that the diggers in that quarter had failed, they turned aside to prospect in another direction, and for some time wandered about digging holes here and there, but finding nothing that they considered worth working. About noon of the 15th day of July, 1865, they arrived on the site of the city of Helena, halted for dinner and to rest their horses. They had tested the stream now known as Last Chance creek, but found nothing, and were not disposed to make any further investigation, deeming their labor useless. Dinner over, their horses were saddled, when one of their number walked down to the stream to get a drink before mounting. From mere force of habit he began mechanically scratching the gravel with his hands, when, to his astonishment, he drew out a nugget as big as a gold dollar. He shouted to the rest, who were already on their way, to return with the pans, and showed them his discovery. At first, incredulous, they were disposed to disregard his request, but the sight of the nugget changed their minds. In short order the horses were unsaddled and a hole dug. A hundred dollars' worth of gold was taken out in twenty minutes. It was exactly the place they were looking for. They immediately settled and located claims; with a short time news of their success spread abroad. Hundreds of other miners flocked to the spot and a mining camp of unprecedented richness was established. The city of Helena grew up on the spot, and it is said that one of the banks of that city is situated on a portion of the first claim located by the lucky quartet. It is also said that their names were Cowan, Crab, Miller and Stanley, though to what extent each profited by the discovery is not certain. As a general thing, the men who discover a rich district are not the men who are ultimately enriched by it, and it is possible that in this case the rule held good.

Registration of Women at Chicago.
Chicago Paper.

Six women, chaperoned by an unmarried lady of superfluously doubtful years, entered a registry booth on the West Side. The chaperon was there to do her full and glorious duty in the name of women with a capital W. This could be seen in the drawn lines of her face.

When she held up her right hand to take the oath it was apparent that she considered the worst of the ceremony over. But when the judge confronted her with the question: "Where were you born?" a deadly pallor chased over her features. She felt what was coming, but in a tone of forced bravery replied:

"In Illinois."

Then the doomful interrogation fell:

"How long have you lived in Illinois?"

She wished that she had been born in Cork or Dublin or anywhere along there, but it was of no use. In shaking tones she answered:

"About twenty-five years."

"But, to be exact, how long?" returned the inexorable judge.

"Well, sir, about thirty years."

There was a flicker of resentful fire in this reply.

But still the judge persisted, with malicious conscientiousness:

"Be still more exact, madam!"

"I'm thirty-five years old—and I think you're a mean thing!" burst from her irate lips. She did not wait to see her companions through the fiery ordeal.

A Fraternal Event.

Absit Invidia Rebekah Lodge, No. 11, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will give an entertainment and dance at Enterprise Hall, corner of Twenty-second and Grove streets, Tuesday evening, November 20th, for the benefit of the regalia fund, to which all are most cordially invited. A good time is assured. Admission, 25 cents.

A New French Bicycle Tire.
New York Sun.

A new bicycle tire has just been devised by M. M. Gerard, City Engineer of Bordeaux and Picon, which is intended to do away with the defects of all other tires. It consists in substance of a thin rubber tube whose inner surface is intersected by rubber disks perpendicular to it and placed close to one another; disks and surface are all molded in one piece. The disks are thicker at the circumference than at the center, to prevent the tube from sinking into the interstices between the supports, and they are made eccentric so as to distribute the resisting power of the surface without increasing the weight of the tire. They divide the tire into a very large number of air chambers, perfectly independent of one another, so that if one is pierced the others are not affected; these add to the elasticity of the tire and do not need to be filled with compressed air. The motion is as easy as that of the best pneumatic tires, while the accidents to which pneumatic tires are subject are done away with.

The tire can be applied at once to all rims for solid or hollow tires; for pneumatic tire machines some slight but inexpensive modification of the rim will be necessary.

THE SILENCE CURE.

Do Women Hurt Their Nerves by Talking?

"I have two or three patients who are ill with nervous prostration, and who could be cured if they would stop talking," said a nerve specialist the other day. "They waste their nerve tissue as fast as I can supply it, and they are on the verge of hysterics and acute nervous pain all the time. A woman, if she be inclined to talk too much, should time herself just as she would take medicine, and allow herself only just so many minutes of talk.

"Now, the other day a woman who is troubled with insomnia came in my office for treatment. She had been taking drugs. She told me about her troubles and her tongue ran like the clapper of a farmhouse bell at dinner time. I thought she never would let up. Finally I stopped her.

"'Do you talk as much as that very often, madam?' I asked.

"She drew herself up and said in an offended tone, 'This is no laughing matter, doctor, I assure you. I am worn out from lack of sleep; and though my family do all things possible to divert my mind, and I make calls and see people all the time, I get steadily worse. I am worn to a shadow. Why last summer——'

"And so her tongue rattled on, until I again had to stop her.

"'Now listen to my prescription,' I said. 'Go home and keep still. Don't talk. Time your tongue waggings. At breakfast allow your husband to read the newspaper without interruption. After breakfast sew a little in your own room. Read as much as you please. Walk long distances if you are strong enough. Do not make many calls. At dinner talk all you please, but spend a quiet evening. If you go to the theater do not talk much during the play. Exercise a little self-denial. It will be hard at first, for you are a chatterer, but if you persevere you will succeed and your nervous system will get rest.'

"What did she say to that? Well, I do not think she liked it. But if she took me seriously I think I can cure her in a month.

"Do I have many such cases? Well, I should say I did! It is almost safe to declare that there never is a case of real acute nervousness unless the woman is a talker. With a man it is different. He may worry himself into insanity, or complete loss of brain power, if his business goes wrong. But the very nervous woman is seldom a worrier. She is the woman of leisure with a small family—few in numbers I mean—to direct. She buys their food, their clothing, hires the servants and 'keeps house.' She has no real worries. But does she think she has? Oh dear, yes! She thinks she has more to do than any other woman of her acquaintance.

"'Keep quiet a few hours every day and you will be a well woman,' is what I tell half my woman patients. When I can persuade them to try it they come back and say: 'Why, doctor, I have not been nervous enough to fly since I began to try your queer prescription.'"—New York Sun.

CURRENT EASTERN COMMENT.

Six hundred policy shops are in full activity in New York—at $100 a month each to the Captain. Tammany collects, therefore, $720,000 a year tribute from policy gambling. The public is beginning to understand the phenomena of the sudden enrichment of Tammany leaders.—New York Commercial Advertiser, Rep.

Everything was fish for the Tammany net. Not even the lemonade stands escaped tribute.—Boston Journal.

The voters of this country are at present confronted by a condition, and they care very little about theories. They know that Democratic tinkering with the tariff has caused hard times, and that hard times have taken money from their pockets and food and clothing from their wives and children. They will, therefore, vote against the party which is responsible for the condition, and no amount of explanation of the theories of free trade and single tax will change the result.—Cleveland Leader.

England is spending a good deal of money in planning a route by which British troops may be swiftly carried to China. The longer European nations plan routes for carrying troops, while the United States continues building roads and ships to carry goods, the better for this nation.—Chicago Times.

Pillar of the church, deacon, Sunday school teacher, no liquors, no cigars, handled the firm's money, $35,000 short. Tombs.—New York Journal.

It is charged that the Texas legislators, in their desire to do something smart against "trade combination," have, in effect, forbidden dealers to either raise or reduce the price of anything—which is nonsense.—Kansas City Star.

The Girl Treasury Clerk.
Philadelphia Times.

Talents of the highest order and blood as blue as the bluest have the women of the Treasury brought to the work, and so changed are the conditions that she no longer comes veiled, ashamed to be seen earning her bread in Uncle Sam's service on account of strange and shady fellow workers, as I am told was actually the case under the rule of old "influence." In those pioneer days a treasury girl was a something suggestive, a somebody that would bear watching; she was an apology. Her work a cloak intended to conceal what everybody saw and knew, so I have been told by the people of that day. Appointees valuing their reputations at that price above rubies crept in through the side doors, and veiled at that, obliged to suffer what they then thought the shame of it, in order to get the crumbs that want demanded for the child of a patriotic sire. But now all these humiliating conditions are changed, thanks to civil service, which shows no favoritism except to brains.

AN UNEXPECTED SPEECH.

How Senator Matt Carpenter Talked to the South.

Should Governor McKinley carry out his half-formed purpose of going down to New Orleans and delivering a Republican speech he will be the only Northern man of prominence who has ever done so since Senator Matt Carpenter of Wisconsin tried the experiment in 1875, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Ex-Senator Carpenter went down to Louisiana by invitation of the citizens of Louisiana issued "without regard to party" (as they said), chiefly because his legal instincts had induced him to unite with Democratic Senators in a minority report upon a political contest in regard to affairs in Louisiana.

Mr. Carpenter arrived in New Orleans and had a big reception. He made a brilliant speech to a crowded house, one of his best efforts. The leading newspapers of New Orleans had stenographic reporters present to report his every utterance. But Mr. Carpenter, instead of giving them the political "taffy" (no other word will adequately express it) to which for years they had been accustomed from their political orators, roundly denounced them for neglecting their material interests, and devoting their whole time to politics. He closed an elegant peroration by telling them to develop their industries, and to "let the (blank) politics slide."

Not a single newspaper in New Orleans printed his speech in full. It was not what they wanted or expected. The sturdy Senator, with the persistency which so strongly marked his character, determined that that speech should go out. He hired a stenographer, took off his coat, and (it was midsummer), paced the floor of his room at the old St. Louis Hotel, and from memory repeated that speech with such accuracy, although he made no notes to guide him, that when this reproduction was afterwards compared with the suppressed shorthand reports, scarcely a divergence could be found. That speech was printed after all, and was widely circulated.

Big Newspaper Circulations in Paris.
Chicago Interior.

In Paris we count about seventy large daily papers and 3000 other periodicals. The Petit Journal leads with a daily circulation of 1,450,000 copies, the Petit Parisian follows with 800,000. The Figaro has the largest circulation of the big dailies, with 120,000. Among the reviews we find the Revue des Deux Mondes (Brunetiere chief editor) and the Nouvelle Revue, which belongs to Mme. Adam (Juliette Lambert). It is very hard to give a fair estimate in number of the Parisian journalists, but according to the census of 1890 not less than 10,000 writers contribute to the newspapers. Journalism is a profession highly respected in France, and every man who has a name in literary, scientific, artistic or political circles is, or has been, a journalist. Vacquerie, the chief editor of the Rappel during the last thirty years, refused lately a seat at the French Academy of Letters, as, he said, the fact of being one of the forty immortals would add nothing to his reputation. And he is not the only man who is satisfied with being a journalist. Francis Magnard, Hebrard, Sorcey, Rousset of the Gazette de France (in existence since 1650), Brunetiere, Richepin, Lemaitre, Drummont and many others are of the same opinion.

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette

The novelty of a telegraph operator who can scarcely hear a locomotive whistle working day after day at the depot is one of the marvels presented at a branch station near this city The man is about 28 years old. He has been deaf since he was about 3 years of age as the result of an attack of scarlet fever.

Being so extremely hard of hearing the child's sense of touch was developed to the degree usually possessed by blind persons. The slightest tap upon a table or a wall, the rolling of a wagon wheel along the street and all similar sounds were conveyed to him by the consequent vibrations.

When about twelve years of age he undertook the study of telegraphy. Being a favorite with the operator at his home he was given the run of the office. All the mystic signs, dots and dashes of the profession were explained to him. Day after day he could be seen sitting at the table, with his knees pressed against it or resting his elbow upon it. He was literally feeling the messages as they were ticked off over the wire. Being naturally quick it was but a short time until he was able to correctly read any message coming into the office. Sending came just as easy, and today, after sixteen years' service at the key and sounder, he is just as fine an operator as there is in the country. Of late years his hearing has improved to such an extent that he can easily hear the sounder, but the old habit of listening with his knee or elbow still clings to him, and that is the way all his messages are read.

Pittsburgh Post

A good story is told of William Swisher, one of the veterans who is present at the Grand Army encampment in Pittsburgh. He was in a Colorado town not long ago without money, but with a great thirst. He was sizing up a saloon outfit from a corner seat when a Westerner invited him to take a drink.

'No," replied Bill deliberately, "I will not drink today"

'Won't you, Mr. Boiled Shirt?" replied the cowboy. "We shall see," Then he turned to the bartender. "Put ten whisky glasses along the bar in a row. Now fill 'em up."

When they were filled he drew a pistol and cocked it.

"Drink down the line," he commanded.

Bill slowly drained each glass. When the last was down he placed it on the counter, set the ten glasses in line and turned to the cowboy.

'Now, mister," said he, "if you have 'em filled again I'll drink my way back."

Effect of the Elections on the Money Market.

The New Congressmen Will Have an Effect.

Public Confidence Will Now Return With Republicanism

The stir over the elections has of course made things unsteady in the money market, and Henry Clews, the New York banker, writes to THE TRIBUNE as follows

"The unusual excitement connected with the elections has found its way into Wall street, and to such an extent as to cause some deferment of business until after the vote has been taken. Special interest is felt in the election of Congressmen, from the fact that the composition of the next House of Representatives will go far towards determining how far the new policy tendencies of the party now in power will remain in force. Public sentiment shows a deep interest in questions of banking and currency, an enlargement of bank notes is favored, such issues to be based not upon the present national system of bond guarantee, which has now become positively obstructive to issues, but by a law that would constitute the notes a prior lien upon all the assets of the banks, and which might, under proper safeguards be made to apply to the State banks as well as the National. The interest felt in Wall street in some such measure of money reform centers mainly in the fact that it would tend to greater stability in the money market and to prevent the spasms of scarcity that come almost every fall, and equally the over-supplies of money that depress the rate of interest at other seasons This is one of the factors affecting the future of investment and speculative operations upon which Wall street will keep a watchful eye.

"What the Stock Exchange interest now needs is some influence that would arouse investors to an earnest estimate of the interest-earning value of the leading stocks at current prices. The present range of market values is extraordinarily low, low compared with the actual present condition of the various properties, still lower compared with the more active business into which the recovery of trade is carrying the roads, and lower still compared with the rates that money is earning in the open market.

The prices for 1893 cover the period following the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act of 1890 The first effect of the repeal was a sharp upward bound in prices, that, however, was followed by an equally sharp decline Out of twenty-seven stocks only four show any increase over the figures of a year ago The truest comparison may be made by taking the total of the prices for each year Thus we find the total for 1893 to be 1792, and for 1894 1593

This amounts to an average decline within the year of 11 16 per cent. It surely will not be contended that there is any difference in the condition and prospects of the railroads, or in the spirit of trade, or in the tone of public confidence, or in the state of the money market,—to warrant any such adverse difference in the value of securities, on the contrary, all these factors affecting values are in favor of the present situation as compared with that of a year ago. We therefore cannot but regard the present condition of prices as unusually favorable for investment in the stocks of good corporations

James A. Reilly and his strong company are drawing good houses at the People's Theater this week The German Soldier is one of those bright, spicy pieces that keeps the audience in one perpetual drift of enthusiasm. Several new songs by the sweet singer Mr. Reilly, are introduced and the strength of each artist makes The German Soldier one of the best attractions ever mounted at the People's Theater.

RANDOM NOTES.

In making treaties with China each foreign country has chosen its own name. England is Ying kwo, the flourishing country, France is Fa kwo, the law abiding country, the United States' Mei kwo, the beautiful country; Germany, Je kwo, the virtuous country; Italy I kwo, the country of justice. Japan is Ji kwo, the land of the sun, but she prefers to be called Ji pen, the land of the rising sun.

A German insured a lot of cigars against fire, smoked them and then sued for insurance money.

The Postoffice of Purgatory was established in Virginia in 1892 with George Godbethere as Postmaster.

There is one office in Michigan which is a good deal of a sinecure. It is that of the probate judge of Manitoba county. The present judge has held the office for six years, and during all that time had but one case before him. As his salary is $200 per year that one case has paid him $1200.

Cod liver oil which leaked from a car on a French freight train stopped the wheels of the next train, which happened to be a passenger.

By an Italian law every circus which does not perform every act promised in the printed programme, or which misleads the public by means of pictures, is liable to a fine of $500 for each offense.

The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle tells how the school children of Rochester killed 8,500 000 caterpillars, inspired by the promise of a bounty by the Genesee Valley Forestry Association. It says: "So thoroughly done was the work of gathering the cocoons that the caterpillars have been practically exterminated for the present season, and the trees of the city have been in full and vigorous foliage." The amount paid in prizes this year was $660, and the number of cocoons destroyed was 8,500,000

A violent secession is going on in France over the co-education of the sexes, and French public sentiment is much opposed to the attempt to introduce it.

There is more ginseng root grown in West Virginia than there is in China, although the Chinese introduced the root into America. The amount exported to China now runs into hundreds of tons annually

MOREHOUSE ELECTED.

Returns From Northern Counties Show It.

L. C. Morehouse, the Republican candidate for the State Board of Equalization from this district, has certainly been elected according to the reports received from various points. He is well deserving of his triumph, because of the faithful services he has rendered the district in the past. He has lots of friends in Oakland, who will rejoice to learn of his success.

He loses Alameda county by about 600 votes. This has been due to the fact that he ran against Wells of Dublin, a popular Democrat who had also received the endorsement of the A. P. A.

In San Joaquin county, Morehouse is away ahead of Wells, as shown by the following dispatch:

STOCKTON, November 8.—Thirty-nine precincts give Morehouse, 2111; Wells, 1754. Eleven small precincts to hear from.

The following comes from Sacramento:

SACRAMENTO, Cal., November 8.—The vote on Board of Equalization in fifty-six out of sixty-six precincts in full is: Lane, 254; Morehouse, 3398; Wells, 1996; Wheeler, 2025.

In El Dorado county Morehouse is known to be running well, although the following dispatch gives no light on the subject.

PLACERVILLE, Cal., November 8.—Budd received 29 majority over Estes. No returns for State Board of Equalization.

From Tuolumne county comes the following:

SONORA, November 8.—Vote not kept. Budd's majority about 350. Morehouse leads his ticket.

In Nevada County, Morehouse will get a majority of about 200, and he will also carry Amador and Calaveras counties.

Following is the latest from Contra Costa County:

"MARTINEZ, November 8, 1:51 P. M.—Morehouse, 1402; Wells, 1005, with three precincts to hear from.

"F. WILLIAMS."

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, November 8.—Full returns today confirm the election of all the six Democratic candidates for the Congress of Louisiana.

The sugar planters are understood to have had spotters in the three sugar districts.

Republicans are hopeful of getting Beatty, Kerloch and Coleman seated.

IT'S BUDD.

His Election Now Conceded by Everybody.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 8.—In the election for Mayor of San Francisco, as far as counted, Sutro has a plurality of 10,000 and is undoubtedly elected.

The count in California has progressed sufficiently to make Budd's election as Governor a certainty.

Justice Temple, Dem., is elected for the long term.

All the rest of the State ticket is Republican.

Maguire, Dem., is re-elected to Congress from the Fourth district.

The Republicans elect the other six Congressmen.

The State Legislature has a large majority (Republican) on joint ballot.

Throughout the country the Republicans have made a clean sweep, with pluralities not known since war times, and will undoubtedly control the House, and probably the Senate.

Very few returns have been received from any of the precincts in California this morning, and there is practically no change in the result as tabulated at a late hour last night.

Last tabulation included complete returns from 1325 precincts out of a total of 2274 precincts in the State.

The result on vote for Governor was: Estee, 80,555; Budd, 83,960. Budd's plurality, 3,405.

Budd's plurality in this city is 11,226, while Estee's plurality in the 1032 precincts outside of San Francisco, which have been heard from is 7821.

There are still 310 precincts in the State outside of San Francisco to hear from and it is probable that Budd's net plurality of 3405, as it now stands at present, will be reduced by from one to two thousand when the returns are all in.

The Republicans have a safe majority in the Legislature, and have elected six of the seven Congressmen.

Stanton (Dem.) is elected in the Second Railroad district, and Clark (Rep.) in the Third Railroad district.

Larue (Dem.) is probably elected in the First Railroad district, though there are still more than half of the precincts in that district to be heard from.

KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, November 8.—The Star (Independent) figures John C. Tarsney, for Congress, has carried the Fifth district by a little over 500.

There is every prospect of a contest by Colonel Van Horn, Rep.

In the Second ward in Kansas City, 1548 votes were cast against 725 in the last presidential election.

It is claimed it can be proven there are not 1000 voters in the Second ward.

TOPEKA, Kan., November 8.—Latest figures show that Kansas has elected seven Republican Congressmen, and one Populist, Baker, Sixth district.

This district is so close that a contest is likely.

The Legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by about 35.

NEW YORK.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., November 8.—According to figures received thus far at Police Headquarters, the consolidation, as far as Brooklyn is concerned, has been lost by about 100 votes.

Counsellor Shanks, secretary of the Consolidation League, claims, however, the consolidation has been carried by a small majority.

It will make no difference whether the vote is found to be in favor or against, as the matter will have to go to the Legislature in any event.

The uncertainty about the Board of Aldermen was removed this afternoon by the police returns, which give the Republicans seventeen out of thirty-one members. The board will have the apportionment of the city Assembly districts.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional Committee received the following letter today from A. E. Holton, chairman of the Republican State Committee of North Carolina.

"We won a complete victory at the polls here yesterday.

"We elected the judicial ticket by an estimated majority of over 40,000 and have both branches of the Legislature with four Republican and three Populist Congressmen.

"The fight will have to be made tomorrow before the county canvassing boards.

"It will be necessary for us to employ counsel to appear before the canvassing boards in many counties.

"The Democrats say they have given up the State, but our best information is that they will appear before the boards tomorrow prepared to do all in their power."

Chairman Babcock has instructed Holton to employ all the counsel necessary to protect Republican rights.

Chairman Babcock now estimates there will be 225 Republicans in the next House.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Senator Faulkner concedes the Republicans have defeated Wilson in West Virginia and carried four Congressional districts and the Legislature.

A dispatch from Representative Maguire, announcing his election, is the only report from California.

MOREHOUSE ELECTED.

Returns From Northern Counties Show It.

L. C. Morehouse, the Republican candidate for the State Board of Equalization from this district, has certainly been elected according to the reports received from various points. He is well deserving of his triumph, because of the faithful services he has rendered the district in the past. He has lots of friends in Oakland, who will rejoice to learn of his success.

He loses Alameda county by about 600 votes. This has been due to the fact that he ran against Wells of Dublin, a popular Democrat who had also received the endorsement of the A. P. A.

In San Joaquin county, Morehouse is away ahead of Wells, as shown by the following dispatch:

STOCKTON, November 8.—Thirty-nine precincts give Morehouse, 2111; Wells, 1754. Eleven small precints to hear from.

The following comes from Sacramento:

SACRAMENTO, Cal., November 8.—The vote on Board of Equalization in fifty-six out of sixty-six precincts in full is: Lane, 254; Morehouse, 3398; Wells, 1996; Wheeler, 2025.

In El Dorado county Morehouse is known to be running well, although the following dispatch gives no light on the subject.

PLACERVILLE, Cal., November 8.—Budd received 29 majority over Estee. No returns for State Board of Equalization.

From Tuolumne county comes the following:

SONORA, November 8.—Vote not kept. Budd's majority about 350. Morehouse leads his ticket.

In Nevada County, Morehouse will get a majority of about 290, and he will also carry Amador and Calaveras counties.

Following is the latest from Contra Costa County:

"MARTINEZ, November 8, 1:51 P. M.—Morehouse, 1402; Wells, 1005, with three precincts to hear from.

"F. WILLIAMS."

LOUISIANA.

NEW ORLEANS, November 8.—Full returns today confirm the election of all the six Democratic candidates for the Congress of Louisiana.

The sugar planters are understood to have had spotters in the three sugar districts.

Republicans are hopeful of getting Beatty, Kerloch and Coleman seated.

IT'S BUDD.

His Election Now Conceded by Everybody.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 8.—In the election for Mayor of San Francisco, as far as counted, Sutro has a plurality of 10,000 and is undoubtedly elected.

The count in California has progressed sufficiently to make Budd's election as Governor a certainty.

Justice Temple, Dem., is elected for the long term.

All the rest of the State ticket is Republican.

Maguire, Dem., is re-elected to Congress from the Fourth district.

The Republicans elect the other six Congressmen.

The State Legislature has a large majority (Republican) on joint ballot.

Throughout the country the Republicans have made a clean sweep, with pluralities not known since war times, and will undoubtedly control the House, and probably the Senate.

Very few returns have been received from any of the precincts in California this morning, and there is practically no change in the result as tabulated at a late hour last night.

That tabulation included complete returns from 1325 precincts out of a total of 2274 precincts in the State.

The result on vote for Governor was: Estee, 80,555; Budd, 83,960. Budd's plurality, 3,405.

Budd's plurality in this city is 11,226, while Estee's plurality in the 1032 precincts outside of San Francisco, which have been heard from is 7821.

There are still 949 precincts in the State outside of San Francisco to hear from and it is probable that Budd's net plurality of 3405, as it now stands at present, will be reduced by from one to two thousand when the returns are all in.

The Republicans have a safe majority in the Legislature, and have elected six of the seven Congressmen.

Stanton (Dem.) is elected in the Second Railroad district, and Clark (Rep.) in the Third Railroad district.

Larue (Dem.) is probably elected in the First Railroad district, though there are still more than half of the precincts in that district to be heard from.

KANSAS.

KANSAS CITY, November 8.—The Star (Independent) figures John C. Tarsney, for Congress, has carried the Fifth district by a little over 500.

There is every prospect of a contest by Colonel Van Horn, Rep.

In the Second ward of Kansas City, 1548 votes were cast against 728 in the last presidential election.

It is claimed it can be proven there are not 1000 voters in the Second ward.

TOPEKA, Kas., November 8.—Latest figures show that Kansas has elected seven Republican Congressmen, and one Populist, Baker, Sixth district.

This district is so close that a contest is likely.

The Legislature will be Republican on joint ballot by about 35.

NEW YORK.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., November 8.—According to figures received thus far at Police Headquarters, the consolidation, as far as Brooklyn is concerned, has been lost by about 100 votes.

Counsellor Shanks, secretary of the Consolidation League, claims, however, the consolidation has been carried by a small majority.

It will make no difference whether the vote is found to be in favor or against, as the matter will have to go to the Legislature in any event.

The uncertainty about the Board of Aldermen was removed this afternoon by the police returns, which give the Republicans seventeen out of thirty-one members. The board will have the apportionment of the city Assembly districts.

NORTH CAROLINA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Chairman Babcock of the Republican Congressional Committee received the following letter today from A. E. Holton, chairman of the Republican State Committee of North Carolina.

"We won a complete victory at the polls here yesterday.

"We elected the judicial ticket by an estimated majority of over 40,000 and have both branches of the Legislature with four Republican and three Populist Congressmen.

"The fight will have to be made tomorrow before the county canvassing boards.

"It will be necessary for us to employ counsel to appear before the canvassing boards in many counties.

"The Democrats say they have given up the State, but our best information is that they will appear before the boards tomorrow prepared to do all in their power."

Chairman Babcock has instructed Holton to employ all the counsel necessary to protect Republican rights.

Chairman Babcock now estimates there will be 225 Republicans in the next House.

WEST VIRGINIA.

WASHINGTON, November 8.—Senator Faulkner concedes the Republicans have defeated Wilson in West Virginia and carried four Congressional districts and the Legislature.

A dispatch from Representative Maguire, announcing his election, is the only report from California.

COLORADO.

PUEBLO, November 8. — Thomas M.

Bowen (Rep.) is elected Congressman of the Second Colorado district. His majority over Bell (Pop.) is about 800.

DENVER, November 8.—In spite of a positive announcement from Pueblo, Thomas M. Bowen, Rep., is elected Congressman.

The result in the Second district still seems to be in doubt.

Returns, official and estimated received here from all counties in district, except two, give Bell, Pop., 2207 majority.

The Republicans will have seventeen majority on a joint ballot of the Legislature.

MISSOURI.

ST. LOUIS, November 8.—There is now almost no doubt that the Republican State ticket has been successful.

In comparison with two years ago the Republicans had a plurality of 29,661 to overcome.

Fifty-seven counties out of 114 show a net Republican gain of 18,729.

In the House of Representatives the Republicans have made gains enough to give them a joint ballot or majority but the Senate will remain Democratic.

In the Congressional districts it is now fairly established that the First (Hatch's), Fourth (Ellison's), Sixth (Dearmond's), Seventh (Heard's), Ninth (Champ Clark's), Thirteenth (Foxe's), Fourteenth (Arnold's), and Nineteenth (Morgan's) have been carried by the Republicans.

The Eighth (Bland's) is still in doubt; also the Third (Dockery's).

The Tenth and Eleventh, St. Louis, are Republican.

The only sure Democratic districts are the Second and Fifth and Twelfth.

The State Democratic Committee concedes the election of the Republican Legislature.

It also concedes the defeat on prima facie returns of R. P. Bland in the Eighth district by a plurality of 19 votes.

The committee still claims the re-election of Dockery in the Third by 300

VIRGINIA.

RICHMOND, Va., November 8.—The latest returns show the election of Democrats in all the Virginia Congressional districts except the ninth, where James E. Walker was successful.

ALABAMA.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., November 8.—Howard, Pop., has defeated, Delson, Dem., Seventh district. Returns of the First district indicate the election of Goodwin, Pop., over Judge Cobb, Dem.

TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, November 8.—The election for Governor has not been definitely settled.

The Republicans claim the election of Evans by 15,000 majority, while the Democrats claim Turney's election by 5000 to 7000.

A LIVELY THRONG.

Thousands Watch the "Tribune" Returns.

The complete count in Alameda county will not be concluded until tonight. The election board in precinct 3 of Berkeley is still hard at work. This is one of the largest precincts in the State. The men are all tired out and in consequence the count is progressing very slowly.

In precinct 7 of the Seventh ward the count is also very slow on account of the large number of votes cast.

For forty-eight hours THE TRIBUNE office has been stormed by anxious politicians and people interested in the election.

The arrangements made by THE TRIBUNE for handling the returns were most complete. On the building adjoining the office several large blackboards had been erected and in front of them were placed electric lights. The moment the returns came into the office they were figured up and the results were given to the public as the count progressed.

This method of giving the public the returns proved to be most satisfactory as was evidenced by the great crowd that was continually in front of THE TRIBUNE at all hours.

At one time there were over 3000 people watching the returns. The main interest in local matters was centered in the fight for Sheriff. McKillican was retired from the race early in the count as it was apparent that he was a poor third. White took the lead and kept it until last night. The Schaffer men had practically given up the contest after the first night's returns had been bulletined.

However, when THE TRIBUNE showed the vote of the county up to 10 o'clock last night there was a decided change in the feelings of the Schaffer men. The spark of hope was fanned into flame, and they came around eager to catch all returns.

Schaffer took the lead by thirty-eight votes at eleven o'clock last night, and at midnight he was again passed by White.

The crowd remained in front of THE TRIBUNE office until after 1 o'clock this morning. They stayed just as long as there was a figure to be obtained. Some were enthusiastic and others were disheartened. Some gave vent to their feelings in cheers when they found that their favorite was in the lead. In the early part of the night the cheering was frequent as Schaffer and White seesawed in the contest to serve the people.

This morning the crowd turned up early in front of THE TRIBUNE to hear the latest news on the Sheriff's fight. White still had the lead in the race and the Schaffer men again lost confidence.

Considerable interest was taken in the fight for Superintendent of Schools, and the returns on this office were eagerly sought by the friends of the candidates. Garlick took the lead at the start of the count and he kept it until yesterday when he was passed by Frick. This morning the latter was still in the lead, but his friends were not particularly confident. They kept posted right along, however, by THE TRIBUNE returns.

The great crowd also showed much interest in the race between Laymance, Herrscher and Sanford for Treasurer. The fight at the start seemed to be centered between Laymance and Herrscher. The former took the lead and kept in first place right along. Sanford, the Populist, came up with a rush last night and displayed such force as to be a dangerous competitor for Laymance. The Populists became enthusiastic over the prospects of winning two of the big offices of the county. They eagerly watched THE TRIBUNE bulletin boards all day long in order to keep posted on the situation.

The system used in producing results in THE TRIBUNE office was a most complete one and was so arranged that the public was kept advised of every contest right along just as the complete and partial returns came in. Men were at work night and day on the charts, and had their work done to such a fine point that it was an easy matter for them to give totals on every office in the county so far as the count had progressed.

This morning being the second day after election, the crowd was still on deck to hear the latest returns from all sources. They were kept advised of the situation right along.

THE TRIBUNE not only displayed local returns, but it was the first to give bulletins concerning the elections all over the country. Not only that, but the public was kept fully advised as to how the election progressed in San Francisco. In fact, the service was most complete in every regard and the people showed their appreciation by their presence.

Until late this afternoon the crowd remained in front of the office seeking information on the close contests.

TENNESSEE.

NASHVILLE, November 8.—The election for Governor has not been definitely settled.

A LIVELY THRONG.

Thousands Watch the "Tribune" Returns.

The complete count in Alameda county will not be concluded until tonight. The election board in precinct 8 of Berkeley is still hard at work. This is one of the largest precincts in the State. The men are all tired out and in consequence the count is progressing very slowly.

In precinct 7 of the Seventh ward the count is also very slow on account of the large number of votes cast.

For forty-eight hours THE TRIBUNE office has been stormed by anxious politicians and people interested in the election.

The arrangements made by THE TRIBUNE for handling the returns were most complete. On the building adjoining the office several large blackboards had been erected and in front of them were placed electric lights. The moment the returns came into the office they were figured up and the results were given to the public as the count progressed.

This method of giving the public the returns proved to be most satisfactory as was evidenced by the great crowd that was continually in front of THE TRIBUNE at all hours.

At one time there were over 3000 people watching the returns. The main interest in local matters was centered in the fight for Sheriff. McKillican was retired from the race early in the count as it was apparent that he was a poor third. White took the lead and kept it until last night. The Schaffer men had practically given up the contest after the first night's returns had been bulletined.

However, when THE TRIBUNE showed the vote of the county up to 10 o'clock last night there was a decided change in the feelings of the Schaffer men. The spark of hope was fanned into flame, and they came around eager to catch all returns.

Schaffer took the lead by thirty-eight votes at eleven o'clock last night, and at midnight he was again passed by White.

The crowd remained in front of THE TRIBUNE office until after 1 o'clock this morning. They stayed just as long as there was a figure to be obtained. Some were enthusiastic and others were disheartened. Some gave vent to their feelings in cheers when they found that their favorite was in the lead. In the early part of the night the cheering was frequent as Schaffer and White seesawed in the contest to serve the people.

This morning the crowd turned up early in front of THE TRIBUNE to hear the latest news on the Sheriff's fight. White still had the lead in the race and the Schaffer men again lost confidence.

Considerable interest was taken in the fight for Superintendent of Schools, and the returns on this office were eagerly sought by the friends of the candidates. Garlick took the lead at the start of the count and he kept it until yesterday when he was passed by Frick. This morning the latter was still in the lead, but his friends were not particularly confident. They kept posted right along, however, by THE TRIBUNE returns.

The great crowd also showed much interest in the race between Laymance, Herrscher and Sanford for Treasurer. The fight at the start seemed to be centered between Laymance and Herrscher. The former took the lead and kept in first place right along. Sanford, the Populist, came up with a rush last night and displayed such force as to be a dangerous competitor for Laymance. The Populists became enthusiastic over the prospects of winning two of the big offices of the county. They eagerly watched THE TRIBUNE bulletin boards all day long in order to keep posted on the situation.

The system used in producing results in THE TRIBUNE office was a most complete one and was so arranged that the public was kept advised of every contest right along just as the complete and partial returns came in. Men were at work night and day on the charts, and had their work done to such a fine point that it was an easy matter for them to give totals on every office in the county so far as the count had progressed.

This morning being the second day after election, the crowd was still on deck to hear the latest returns from all sources. They were kept advised of the situation right along.

THE TRIBUNE not only displayed local returns, but it was the first to give bulletins concerning the elections all over the country. Not only that, but the public was kept fully advised as to how the election progressed in San Francisco. In fact, the service was most complete in every regard and the people showed their appreciation by their presence.

Until late this afternoon the crowd remained in front of the office seeking information on the close contests.

FORGOT THE FRONT.

Strange Result of a Defect in a Deed.

"It is not often that a man neglects to buy the front entrance when he buys himself a home," said ex-Judge Dittenhoefer recently to a group of legal friends, who were retailing professional anecdotes, "but that is precisely what a friend of mine did—and he paid dearly for that front door when he did acquire it.

"I was in my office one afternoon when my friend B came in, and after the exchange of the compliments of the day he remarked:

"'Judge, I've bought me a new home out on West One Hundred and Twenty-third street.'

"'That's good,' I replied. 'Did you get a bargain?'

"'Oh, pretty fair! At least I thought I had; but I'm not so sure now. I can't get in the front door.'

"'What do you mean?'

"'The man I bought from refuses to give me the key to the front door, and I can't get in and out only by the back way.'

"'What reason does he give for acting in that manner?'

"'He says I didn't buy the front of the house, and he is not going to let me in that way.'

"'Have you got your deed all right?' he asked.

"'Oh, yes. That's all right.'

"'Well, you bring it down tomorrow and let me look it over.'

"The next morning B. appeared with the deed, which, in a casual glance, appeared to be in correct form. But, on examining the description of the property by metes and bounds, I discovered a curious omission. The point of beginning was at the junction of the street line and the westerly boundary line, running thence to the north boundary, to the east boundary, and then to the street, and stopped there. Hence the frontage, or easement, not being described, was not conveyed.

"And thus, while B. was the legal owner of the rest of the house, the frontage was technically the property of the other fellow, and he had a right to carry the latch key, smoke his pipe on the front stoop, and put on all the airs of master of the house, while B. could only sneak in through the back door.

"Whether the omission was intentional or not was impossible to find out. But it was quickly made plain that the technical owner of the front stoop meant to profit by the accident, if accident it was. On interviewing him he calmly remarked that the frontage was his and he meant to claim it. Being threatened with a suit and the assurance that a court of equity would compel the correction of the deed, he replied: 'Fire away!'

Finally, rather than to have the property tied up in the courts possibly for two years, I advised B. to compromise the matter if he could, and by the payment of $500 he acquired undoubted right to the latch key of his own front door."—New York Herald.

A College President Sent Up for Ninety-nine Years.

St Louis Globe-Democrat.

TEXARKANA, Ark., October 21.—The case of Professor G. L. Bryant, charged with the murder of Professor George T. Ellis, on trial in Boston, was concluded at 11 o'clock last night, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty and fixing the punishment at ninety-nine years in the Penitentiary. Bryant was President of the Texarkana State Normal and Business College and Ellis was formerly a teacher in the school. About five months ago they quarrelled and Ellis proceeded to set up a rival school. Bryant became insanely jealous and set about hounding Ellis in the most annoying manner, and finally wound up by killing him in the local yard of the Cotton Belt Railroad just one month ago.

FORGOT THE FRONT.

Strange Result of a Defect in a Deed.

"It is not often that a man neglects to buy the front entrance when he buys himself a home," said ex-Judge Dittenhoefer recently to a group of legal friends, who were retailing professional anecdotes, "but that is precisely what a friend of mine did—and he paid dearly for that front door when he did acquire it.

"I was in my office one afternoon when my friend B came in, and after the exchange of the compliments of the day he remarked:

"'Judge, I've bought me a new home out on West One Hundred and Twenty-third street.'

"'That's good,' I replied. 'Did you get a bargain?'

"'Oh, pretty fair! At least I thought I had; but I'm not so sure now. I can't get in the front door.'

"'What do you mean?'

"'The man I bought from refuses to give me the key to the front door, and I can't get in and out only by the back way.'

"'What reason does he give for acting in that manner?'

"'He says I didn't buy the front of the house, and he is not going to let me in that way.'

"'Have you got your deed all right?' he asked.

"'Oh, yes. That's all right.'

"'Well, you bring it down tomorrow and let me look it over.'

"The next morning B. appeared with the deed, which, in a casual glance, appeared to be in correct form. But, on examining the description of the property by motes and bounds, I discovered a curious omission. The point of beginning was at the junction of the street line and the westerly boundary line, running thence to the north boundary, to the east boundary, and then to the street, and stopped there. Hence the frontage, or easement, not being described, was not conveyed.

"And thus, while B. was the legal owner of the rest of the house, the frontage was technically the property of the other fellow, and he had a right to carry the latch key, smoke his pipe on the front stoop, and put on all the airs of master of the house, while B. could only sneak in through the back door.

"Whether the omission was intentional or not was impossible to find out. But it was quickly made plain that the technical owner of the front stoop meant to profit by the accident, if accident it was. On interviewing him he calmly remarked that the frontage was his and he meant to claim it. Being threatened with a suit and the assurance that a court of equity would compel the correction of the deed, he replied: 'Fire away!'

Finally, rather than to have the property tied up in the courts possibly for two years, I advised B. to compromise the matter if he could, and by the payment of $500 he acquired undoubted right to the latch key of his own front door."—New York Herald.

A College President Sent Up for Ninety-nine Years.

St Louis Globe-Democrat.

TEXARKANA, Ark., October 21.—The case of Professor G. L. Bryant, charged with the murder of Professor George T. Ellis, on trial in Boston, was concluded at 11 o'clock last night, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty and fixing the punishment at ninety-nine years in the Penitentiary. Bryant was President of the Texarkana State Normal and Business College and Ellis was formerly a teacher in the school. About five months ago they quarreled and Ellis proceeded to set up a rival school. Bryant became insanely jealous and set about hounding Ellis in the most annoying manner, and finally wound up by killing him in the local yard of the Cotton Belt Railroad just one month ago.

THURSDAY..... NOVEMBER 8 1894

THE solid South is no more. The political revolution of Tuesday has swept Missouri into the Republican line.

THE decision of the Fifty-third Congress regarding the contest in the Third Congressional District in California has been reversed by the people at the polls in favor of Samuel G. Hilborn.

THE contest over the Sheriffalty in Alameda county and the election of the Populist nominee, White, is one of the curiosities of the workings of the Australian ballot and the independence of voters.

MOST of the Democratic Congressmen who figured in the Fifty-third Congress as advocates of tariff reform will be conspicuous in the Fifty-fourth Congress because of their absence. They have been snowed under.

ALL the States that have been dickering with Populists, excepting Nebraska, are abandoning the political incongruity. Nebraska has apparently nursed it through another election, because of local differences among Republicans.

THE disruption of organized vagrancy is one of the local measures needing prompt attention. It may be necessary to revive the chain gang to do it, but healthy able-bodied men who do not and will not work, and have no other means of existence excepting that which is represented in an organized system of begging, ought to be put to work.

A Courageous Dominie's Crusade.

When the New York divine, Dr. Parkhurst, began his crusade against vice and corruption in New York, he did it with so much theatrical display that some people doubted his sincerity and suspected that he was bidding for public attention and not seriously endeavoring to bring about a reform in the affairs of the municipal government. The corruptionists, toward whom Dr. Parkhurst directed his shafts, encouraged this view of his course. They pooh-poohed and ridiculed it. But the dominie would not desist. He was in dead earnest. He descended into the dives and slums of the great metropolis and gathered materials for his crusade from the lips of the victims of those who had been fattening on their degradation and immoralities. The evidences which he presented of the guilt of those occupying high places in the metropolitan government through the grace of Tammany Hall were so strong and convincing that the State Senate was forced to take cognizance of the bold crusader's arraignments. Then followed the appointment of the Lexow Senate Committee of Investigation.

Like all Senate committees the Lexow Committee was equipped with extraordinary powers. It was untrammeled by any rules of evidence. It had all the authority of any court as to compelling the attendance of witnesses; and it had powers which courts do not possess, namely, the granting of immunity to witnesses from the effects of their own evidence. The country is familiar with the astounding revelations of crime and corruption involving men in authority in the Police Department of New York which the investigation has already brought to light. These exposures uncovered Tammany Hall and its agents. The sachems of the great political piece club thought at one time that they were in personal danger, and they sought safe cover like hunted quail. But the committee preferred to proceed against the citadel of New York corruption by indirection rather than by direct assault, and it is getting there with the certainty of fate. It has reached one of the Police Commissioners, and it has so sharpened the public wit and conscience that a political revolution has been brought about at the election held this week. The way is now clear for thorough work. Morton's immense plurality of 150,000, due to a large extent to the Lexow revelations, has not only swept Hill into innocuous political desuetude, but it has also driven out of the metropolitan service Tammany's creatures. There will, therefore, be no further obstruction to the course of the committee.

The political purification which will surely follow promises to be greater than that already achieved. Goff, the brave counsel of the Lexow Committee, has been elected Recorder. Evildoers will not have a Maynard or a Barnard to deal with when they come before him for trial and judgment. Barnard gave Tweed and Tammany immunity in the prosecution of their crimes. Maynard snowed his capacity for similar work. Hill has paid the just penalty of his loyalty to Maynard and to Tammany.

The political atmosphere of the nation may be said to have been purified by the result in New York. Not since the days of the complete downfall of Boss Tweed and the Canal Ring has anything occurred in the political history of the nation which will be so far reaching in its good effects as the snowing under of Hill and of ex-Mayor Grant and the destruction of Tammany. The nation is Dr. Parkhurst's debtor. His crusade against vice in New York has borne better fruit than he ever dreamed of harvesting.

How California Has Gone.

The counting of the votes cast in California last Tuesday is not yet finished, but we can determine with almost absolute certainty how the result affects each candidate. While there is scarcely room for a doubt that the head of the Republican ticket has been defeated by a small plurality, the major part of the ticket has been elected with handsome majorities. Six of the seven Congressmen elected are also Republican, Maguire of San Francisco, being the only Democrat that will return to Washington. The Legislature is also no doubt Republican, although the interest in legislative candidates has occupied only a secondary place, apparently, in the public mind since the polls closed Tuesday night.

California is, therefore, fairly entitled to be classified in the Republican column of States. Even the most sanguine and enthusiastic Democrat can not set up a counter claim.

Estee's defeat is to be regretted. Budd will no doubt make a good Governor. He is young and doubtless ambitious of making a good record. But Estee has had such a wide experience in public affairs that his services at the head of the State Government would have been invaluable. It is not difficult to find the influence that accomplished his defeat. Elements were introduced into the campaign at its close, ostensibly in his interest, which ought not to have found a place in the contest. They were personal and of the past, having had their day and been disposed of elsewhere. The personal attack made upon Budd helped his cause and hurt Estee in a corresponding degree. The same may be said of the attacks made on Millard, whose majority for Lieutenant-Governor was thereby increased. There were other elements at work circumventing the election of Estee which the public will more clearly discern after the excitement incident to the election has cooled off. Under ordinary conditions, and without the baneful influences of special unfriendly agencies, the vote for Estee and Millard ought to have been at least equal.

But the manner of the voting at the last election constitutes an interesting study. It contains many new and curious features. It reveals the mental workings of the people of the commonwealth when given the freedom to act which the secret ballot guarantees to them.

NOW THAT Adolph Sutro has been elected Mayor of San Francisco many of the men who ardently opposed his election are coming to the front with advice as to the manner in which he shall run the government. Sutro must smile at these gratuitous offerings of the men who would have rejoiced over his defeat, and he will no doubt place a just estimate on their value. Any one who knows Sutro and has watched his career for the past twenty-five years or more knows that Sutro will be Mayor in fact as well as in name, will make his own plans and likewise carry them out. Sutro is not a man to submit to the chafing of any leading strings. He will be the most independent Mayor the metropolis has ever had, and he will also be one of its best Mayors, or the entire nature of the man will undergo a change.

THE people have chosen a pure and able judiciary, Judges Henshaw and Temple having been elected for the long terms, and Justice Van Fleet for the short term. While Judge Torrance of San Diego was strong in the southern counties, he had not been long enough in the State to be well enough known north of Tehachapi to enable him to overcome the popularity of so distinguished a jurist as Judge Temple. Alameda county is honored in the magnificent vote which was cast for Judge Henshaw, and his career on the bench in this county warrants the cherishing of great expectations regarding his career on the Supreme bench.

THE time for Governor White of Colorado to ride up to the bridle bit in gore is passing by rapidly. He will soon retire to the harmlessness and obscurity of private life. The State has said it will have no more of him.

THE election of Levi P. Morton to the Governorship of New York by a plurality of 150,000 has introduced to the country a formidable candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1896.

MRS. MARY E. LEASE is enjoying the sweet fruits of revenge over Governor Lewelling's early retirement to private life, as a result of Tuesday's election.

THE Budd has, sure enough, blossomed after all. The question still remaining to be answered is, Will it come up to promise?

THOMAS B. REED of Maine will wield the gavel again in the new House of Representatives. That was settled on Tuesday.

It is said that the longest game of chess on record required between five and six years to play. One player was in this country and the other in Australia.

A belt in one of the big flouring mills at Minneapolis contains 200 cowhides. It is 260 feet long and weighs over a ton.

Herman Gottschalk of New York owns the oldest and most valuable coin in the world. It is one of two "holy shekels" now in existence, the other belonging to the British Museum. They are relics of Solomon's time. So much more perfect is Mr. Gottschalk's coin that the British Museum once offered to exchange and add $1000 cash, but Mr. Gottschalk refused the offer.

A few years ago a portion of the pavement in Grosswell road, London, was lifted out of its place in some mysterious way. Before the workmen were sent to replace it numerous toadstools made their appearance in the cracks between the misplaced stone and its fellows. Investigation proved that the stone, which was two feet one way by four the other, and weighed 212 pounds, had actually been lifted out of place by the ramifications growing force of these soft, spongy fungi.

Some months ago an English manufacturer made a number of experiments to determine the best method of illuminating his cloth mills. Gas jets, incandescent lamps, and arc lights were all tried and found wanting, as they either failed to give light enough, gave too much light, or cast heavy shadows. Finally a continental idea was adopted. The walls of a room were painted white and under each of a number of arc lights was suspended a reflector, which threw all the light up to the white ceiling, from which it was reflected to the room below. This system was successful from the outset, and has attracted considerable attention among English weavers.

OUR VERSATILE LANGUAGE.

The Frenchman asked an English sparmaker what he was making.

"A yard," was the reply.

"How much have you got done?" was the next question.

And the Frenchman was very much surprised at the lucidity of the answers, and amazed at the simplicity of our language.—Leisure Hours.

Her Photograph.

You are posing for a lassie,
But I vow you are an elf
On the morn that you were taken
How the sun enjoyed himself!
Lucky Sol! I feel quite certain
That he turned an azure hue
When he couldn't catch the color
Of your winsome eyes of blue.

I gaze upon your features;
Fairer none will ever find
I'm glad that I'm not Cupid
For you know that Cupid's blind.
Do you like my jest? You're smiling
Pretty picture, let us laugh.
I am tempted much to kiss you,
Oh, you witching photograph!

All the world proclaims you charming;
I can well believe it so
Yet there is a look about you
Wakes my pity for the beaux.
You mock them when their hearts ache,
And their wounds you scorn to heal;
And you're lacking in compassion
For the pangs you never feel.

Alas, I'm growing solemn.
And you're much too sweet to scold;
Who could blame a pretty blossom
That it is not sad and old!
Like the roses and the lilies,
You were born the earth to grace;
And the men, like silly mothlings
Should be taught their humble place

It is theirs to kneel before you,
It is yours to be adored;
But the beaux are stupid beings,
And I'm sure you're often bored.
So for fear I, too, may bore you,
Just a wish and then adieu:
May the skies that beam above you
Match your winsome eyes of blue!

NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Bridal silver is no longer de rigueur for wedding presents. Many engaged couples have let their friends know their preference for plated ware, which is now so elaborate and beautiful, and involves less care and anxiety. Simple, useful, family silver is, of course, always acceptable, but the multiplicity of costly plate is only a temptation to the burglar and a worry to the housewife. Checks, indeed, are growing in favor as the most convenient wedding present to give or to receive, and have the prestige of being "quite English" form. There is no nonsense about them and instead of a $10 present that looks as good as $20, but can only be sold for $5, the check is much more acceptable.

A small sachet of powdered orris root kept in each of the bureau drawers will give one's belongings the fresh odor that is infinitely above mere perfume.

It is as bad for the hair to brush it with a soiled brush as it would be for the skin to use soiled towels upon it. The hair-brush should be cleaned once a week in water and ammonia. If it is dried quickly before the fire it will not lose the stiffness which is the main requisite for a good hair-brush.

The hair will dry much more quickly after it has been washed if it is rubbed with warm towels than with merely dry ones. As fast as one becomes damp it should be thrown aside and a fresh, dry warm, one taken. When the hair is moderately dry after this, it should be brushed quite dry with warm brushes. This method imparts a lustre to the hair which nothing else gives.

If there is a disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning a dose of powdered charcoal will remove it. It is wise occasionally to brush the teeth with a mixture of powdered charcoal and orris root, which is both whitening and preserving in its effects. Charcoal is of too coarse a grain, however, for daily use. A semi-occasional polishing with powdered pumice-stone made into a paste with water is also good for the teeth, but used with frequency it scratches the enamel.

The woman who, at the close of the day, brushes her hair, washes her neck and face with hot water and lies down for five minutes will have a much better appetite and will be a much brighter person at the dinner table than one who neglects these rejuvenating processes.

A FAMOUS YEAR.

Distinguished Men Who Were Born in 1809

Oliver Wendell Holmes was born on August 29, 1809. William E. Gladstone was born on December 29, 1809. That is a famous year in biography. Charles Darwin was born on February 12, 1809. Edgar Allan Poe was born on February 19. Alfred Tennyson was born in the same year; so was Pierre Joseph Proudhon, the French social philosopher. It is a year famous in the annals of military history, too, for Marshal Canrobert, the surviving French Marshal, was born in that year; so was Leonard O'Donnell, the Spanish General; so was Frederick von Buest, the Austrian statesman; whose power in German affairs was eclipsed at Sadowa. The Italian statesman, Ricasoli, was born in Florence on March 9, 1809. Park Benjamin, who died in 1864, was born in the same year. For Americans it will always be memorable as the year in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

The death of Dr. Holmes has called up a flood of reminiscences on the subject of old men. Titian, the Italian painter, was 100 years old when he died at Cadore, Italy. Donaldo, when past 90 and utterly blind, stormed Constantinople. Isaac Newton was president of the Royal Society at the age of 83, and Landor finished his "Imaginary Conversations" at the age of 89. Brougham was a debater at 80, and Lyndhurst, when over 90, spoke in the House of Lords. Franklin was Governor of Pennsylvania at the age of 82. Marshal McMahon was 85 when he died. Neal Dow is now in his 90th year. David Dudley Field was 89 when he died. Chevreul, the French chemist, was 102 when he died in 1889. Cassius M. Clay, now living in Kentucky, is 84. Hamilton Fish, Governor, United States Senator, and Secretary of State, was another of the famous men born in 1809.

Troy Times.

A naval officer once found he could not teach the youngest men in the naval academy not to squirm and start and jump and plug their ears with their fingers when the heavy cannon were fired. It was of no use to argue with them, pleadings were in vain and reproofs were useless. It was highly ridiculous to have a lot of young men, whose profession it is to make war when war is needed, act like schoolgirls when the sea artillery was in noisy operation.

Finally the officer hit upon a plan. He had a camera "trained" upon his gallant cadets without their knowing it, and then he ordered broadside after broadside to be fired. The noise was thunderous, and the actions of the cadets were, as usual, most undignified and most unwarlike. A few days later some excellent photographs of the "young-men-afraid-of-a-noise" were hung in prominent positions to be a perpetual reproach to those who plugged their ears. These photographs did their work. The next time the cannon roared the cadets stood like statues carved from stone, petrified with their fear of the "deadly camera" and its brutal frankness.

THURSDAY.....NOVEMBER 8, 1894

THE Solid South is no more. The political revolution of Tuesday has swept Missouri into the Republican line.

THE decision of the Fifty-third Congress regarding the contest in the Third Congressional District in California has been reversed by the people at the polls in favor of Samuel C. Hilborn.

THE contest over the Sheriffalty in Alameda county and the election of the Populist nominee, White, is one of the curiosities of the workings of the Australian ballot and the independence of voters.

MOST of the Democratic Congressmen who figured in the Fifty-third Congress as advocates of tariff reform will be conspicuous in the Fifty-fourth Congress because of their absence. They have been snowed under.

ALL the States that have been dickering with Populists, excepting Nebraska, are abandoning the political incongruity. Nebraska has apparently nursed it through another election, because of local differences among Republicans.

THE disruption of organized vagrancy is one of the local measures needing prompt attention. It may be necessary to revive the chain gang to do it, but healthy able-bodied men who do not and will not work, and have no other means of existence excepting that which is represented in an organized system of begging, ought to be put to work.

A Courageous Dominie's Crusade.

When the New York divine, Dr. Parkhurst, began his crusade against vice and corruption in New York, he did it with so much theatrical display that some people doubted his sincerity and suspected that he was bidding for public attention and not seriously endeavoring to bring about a reform in the affairs of the municipal government. The corruptionists, toward whom Dr. Parkhurst directed his shafts, encouraged this view of his course. They pooh-poohed and ridiculed it. But the dominie would not desist. He was in dead earnest. He descended into the dives and slums of the great metropolis and gathered materials for his crusade from the lips of the victims of those who had been fattening on their degradation and immoralities. The evidences which he presented of the guilt of those occupying high places in the metropolitan government through the grace of Tammany Hall were so strong and convincing that the State Senate was forced to take cognizance of the bold crusader's arraignments. Then followed the appointment of the Lexow Senate Committee of Investigation.

Like all Senate committees the Lexow Committee was equipped with extraordinary powers. It was untrammeled by any rules of evidence. It had all the authority of any court as to compelling the attendance of witnesses; and it had powers which courts do not possess, namely, the granting of immunity to witnesses from the effects of their own evidence. The country is familiar with the astounding revelations of crime and corruption involving men in authority in the Police Department of New York which the investigation has already brought to light. These exposures uncovered Tammany Hall and its agents. The sachems of the great political piece club thought at one time that they were in personal danger, and they sought safe cover like hunted quail. But the committee preferred to proceed against the citadel of New York corruption by indirection rather than by direct assault, and it is getting there with the certainty of fate. It has reached one of the Police Commissioners, and it has so sharpened the public wit and conscience that a political revolution has been brought about at the election held this week. The way is now clear for thorough work. Morton's immense plurality of 150,000, due to a large extent to the Lexow revelations, has not only swept Hill into innocuous political desuetude, but it has also driven out of the metropolitan service Tammany's creatures. There will, therefore, be no further obstruction to the course of the committee.

The political purification which will surely follow promises to be greater than that already achieved. Goff, the brave counsel of the Lexow Committee, has been elected Recorder. Evildoers will not have a Maynard or a Barnard to deal with when they come before him for trial and judgment. Barnard gave Tweed and Tammany immunity in the prosecution of their crimes. Maynard showed his capacity for similar work. Hill has paid the just penalty of his loyalty to Maynard and to Tammany.

The political atmosphere of the nation may be said to have been purified by the result in New York. Not since the days of the complete downfall of Boss Tweed and the Canal Ring has anything occurred in the political history of the nation which will be so far reaching in its good effects as the snowing under of Hill and of ex-Mayor Grant and the destruction of Tammany. The nation is Dr. Parkhurst's debtor. His crusade against vice in New York has borne better fruit than he ever dreamed of harvesting.

How California Has Gone.

The counting of the votes cast in California last Tuesday is not yet finished, but we can determine with almost absolute certainty how the result affects each candidate. While there is scarcely room for a doubt that the head of the Republican ticket has been defeated by a small plurality, the major part of the ticket has been elected with handsome majorities. Six of the seven Congressmen elected are also Republican, Maguire of San Francisco, being the only Democrat that will return to Washington. The Legislature is also no doubt Republican, although the interest in legislative candidates has occupied only a secondary place, apparently, in the public mind since the polls closed Tuesday night.

California is, therefore, fairly entitled to be classified in the Republican column of States. Even the most sanguine and enthusiastic Democrat can not set up a counter claim.

Estee's defeat is to be regretted. Budd will no doubt make a good Governor. He is young and doubtless ambitious of making a good record. But Estee has had such a wide experience in public affairs that his services at the head of the State Government would have been invaluable. It is not difficult to find the influence that accomplished his defeat. Elements were introduced into the campaign at its close, ostensibly in his interest, which ought not to have found a place in the contest. They were personal and of the past, having had their day and been disposed of elsewhere. The personal attack made upon Budd helped his cause and hurt Estee in a corresponding degree. The same may be said of the attacks made on Millard, whose majority for Lieutenant-Governor was thereby increased. There were other elements at work circumventing the election of Estee which the public will more clearly discern after the excitement incident to the election has cooled off. Under ordinary conditions, and without the baneful influences of special unfriendly agencies, the vote for Estee and Millard ought to have been at least equal.

But the manner of the voting at the last election constitutes an interesting study. It contains many new and curious features. It reveals the mental workings of the people of the commonwealth when given the freedom to act which the secret ballot guarantees to them.

NOW THAT Adolph Sutro has been elected Mayor of San Francisco many of the men who ardently opposed his election are coming to the front with advice as to the manner in which he shall run the government. Sutro must smile at those gratuitous offerings of the men who would have rejoiced over his defeat, and he will no doubt place a just estimate on their value. Any one who knows Sutro and has watched his career for the past twenty-five years or more knows that Sutro will be Mayor in fact as well as in name, will make his own plans and likewise carry them out. Sutro is not a man to submit to the chafing of any leading strings. He will be the most independent Mayor the metropolis has ever had, and he will also be one of its best Mayors, or the entire nature of the man will undergo a change.

THE people have chosen a pure and able judiciary, Judges Henshaw and Temple having been elected for the long terms, and Justice Van Fleet for the short term. While Judge Torrance of San Diego was strong in the southern counties, he had not been long enough in the State to be well enough known north of Tehachapi to enable him to overcome the popularity of so distinguished a jurist as Judge Temple. Alameda county is honored in the magnificent vote which was cast for Judge Henshaw, and his career on the bench in this county warrants the cherishing of great expectations regarding his career on the Supreme bench.

THE time for Governor Waite of Colorado to ride up to the bridle bit in gore is passing by rapidly. He will soon retire to the harmlessness and obscurity of private life. The State has said it will have no more of him.

THE election of Levi P. Morton to the Governorship of New York by a plurality of 150,000 has introduced to the country a formidable candidate for the Republican nomination for the Presidency in 1896.

MRS. MARY E. LEASE is enjoying the sweet fruits of revenge over Governor Lewelling's early retirement to private life, as a result of Tuesday's election.

THE Budd has, sure enough, blossomed after all. The question still remaining to be answered is, Will it come up to promise?

THOMAS B. REED of Maine will wield the gavel again in the new House of Representatives. That was settled on Tuesday.

A few years ago a portion of the pavement in Grosswell road, London, was lifted out of its place in some mysterious way. Before the workmen were sent to replace it numerous toadstools made their appearance in the cracks between the misplaced stone and its fellows. Investigation proved that the stone, which was two feet one way by four the other, and weighed 212 pounds, had actually been lifted out of place by the resistless growing force of these soft, spongy fungi.

Some months ago an English manufacturer made a number of experiments to determine the best method of illuminating his cloth mills. Gas jets, incandescent lamps, and arc lights were all tried and found wanting, as they either failed to give light enough, gave too much light, or cast heavy shadows. Finally a continental idea was adopted. The walls of a room were painted white and under each of a number of arc lights was suspended a reflector, which threw all the light up to the white ceiling, from which it was reflected to the room below. This system was successful from the outset, and has attracted considerable attention among English weavers.

"Where did it come from?"

"The yard."

And the Frenchman was very much surprised at the lucidity of the answers, and amazed at the simplicity of our language.—Leisure Hours.

Her Photograph.

You are posing for a lassie,
But I vow you are an elf.
On the morn that you were taken
How the sun enjoyed himself!
Lucky Sol! I feel quite certain
That he turned an azure hue
When he couldn't catch the color
Of your winsome eyes of blue.

I gaze upon your features;
Fairer none will ever find.
I'm glad that I'm not Cupid,
For you know that Cupid's blind.
Do you like my jest? You're smiling.
Pretty picture, let us laugh.
I am tempted much to kiss you,
Oh, you witching photograph!

All the world proclaims you charming;
I can well believe it so.
Yet there is a look about you
Wakes my pity for the beaux.
You mock them when their hearts ache,
And their wounds you scorn to heal;
And you're looking in compassion
For the pangs you never feel.

Alas, I'm growing solemn.
And you're much too sweet to scold;
Who could blame a pretty blossom
That it is not sad and old!
Like the roses and the lilies,
You were born the earth to grace;
And the men, like silly mothlings
Should be taught their humble place.

It is theirs to kneel before you,
It is yours to be adored;
But the beaux are stupid beings,
And I'm sure you're often bored.
So for fear I, too, may bore you,
Just a wish and then adieu;
May the skies that beam above you
Match your winsome eyes of blue!

NOTES FOR WOMEN.

Bridal silver is no longer de rigueur for wedding presents. Many engaged couples have let their friends know their preference for plated ware, which is now so elaborate and beautiful, and involves less care and anxiety. Simple, useful, family silver is, of course, always acceptable, but the multiplicity of costly plate is only a temptation to the burglar and a worry to the housewife. Obecks, indeed, are growing in favor as the most convenient wedding present to give or to receive, and have the prestige of being "quite "English" form. There is no nonsense about them and instead of a $10 present that looks as good as $20, but can only be sold for $5, the check is much more acceptable.

A small sachet of powdered orris root kept in each of the bureau drawers will give one's belongings the fresh odor that is infinitely above mere perfume.

It is as bad for the hair to brush it with a soiled brush as it would be for the skin to use soiled towels upon it. The hair-brush should be cleaned once a week in water and ammonia. If it is dried quickly before the fire it will not lose the stiffness which is the main requisite for a good hair-brush.

The hair will dry much more quickly after it has been washed if it is rubbed with warm towels than with merely dry ones. As fast as one becomes damp it should be thrown aside and a fresh, dry warm, one taken. When the hair is moderately dry after this, it should be brushed quite dry with warm brushes. This method imparts a lustre to the hair which nothing else gives.

If there is a disagreeable taste in the mouth in the morning a dose of powdered charcoal will remove it. It is wise occasionally to brush the teeth with a mixture of powdered charcoal and orris root, which is both whitening and preserving in its effects. Charcoal is of too coarse a grain, however, for daily use. A semi-occasional polishing with powdered pumice-stone made into a paste with water is also good for the teeth, but used with frequency it scratches the enamel.

The woman who, at the close of the day, brushes her hair, washes her neck and face with hot water and lies down for five minutes will have a much better appetite and will be a much brighter person at the dinner table than one who neglects these rejuvenating processes.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

A FAMOUS YEAR.

Distinguished Men Who Were Born in 1809.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was born on August 29, 1809. William E. Gladstone was born on December 29, 1809. That is a famous year in biography. Charles Darwin was born on February 12, 1809. Edgar Allan Poe was born on February 19. Alfred Tennyson was born in the same year; so was Pierre Joseph Proudhon, the French social philosopher. It is a year famous in the annals of military history, too, for Marshal Canrobert, the surviving French Marshal, was born in that year; so was Leonard O'Donnell, the Spanish General; so was Frederick von Buest, the Austrian statesman; whose power in German affairs was eclipsed at Sadowa. The Italian statesman, Ricasoli, was born in Florence on March 9, 1809. Park Benjamin, who died in 1864, was born in the same year. For Americans it will always be memorable as the year in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

The death of Dr. Holmes has called up a flood of reminiscences on the subject of old men. Titian, the Italian painter, was 100 years old when he died at Cadore, Italy. Donaldo, when past 80 and utterly blind, stormed Constantinople. Isaac Newton was president of the Royal Society at the age of 83, and Landor finished his "Imaginary Conversations" at the age of 89. Brougham was a debater at 80, and Lyndhurst, when over 90, spoke in the House of Lords. Franklin was Governor of Pennsylvania at the age of 82. Marshal McMahon was 85 when he died. Neal Dow is now in his 90th year. David Dudley Field was 89 when he died. Chevreul, the French chemist, was 102 when he died in 1889. Cassius M. Clay, now living in Kentucky, is 84. Hamilton Fish, Governor, United States Senator, and Secretary of State, was another of the famous men born in 1809.

Troy Times.

A naval officer once found he could not teach the youngest men in the naval academy not to squirm and start and jump and plug their ears with their fingers when the heavy cannon were fired. It was of no use to argue with them, pleadings were in vain and reproofs were useless. It was highly ridiculous to have a lot of young men, whose profession it is to make war when war is needed, act like schoolgirls when the sea artillery was in noisy operation.

Finally the officer hit upon a plan. He had a camera "trained" upon his gallant cadets without their knowing it, and then he ordered broadside after broadside to be fired. The noise was thunderous, and the actions of the cadets were, as usual, most undignified and most unwarlike. A few days later some excellent photographs of the "young-men-afraid-of-a-noise" were hung in prominent positions to be a perpetual reproach to those who plugged their ears. These photographs did their work. The next time the cannon roared the cadets stood like statues carved from stone, petrified with their fear of the "deadly camera" and its brutal frankness.

We mean the People's Express and Transfer Co. Their latest addition to their already perfect system of delivery is a large moving van, patterned from the latest models of New York City; it is a gem in every respect, built by special order, and as soon as the finishing touches are added by the painters it will be seen in the busy avenues of our city. An incorporation like the People's Express and Transfer Co. deserves the liberal patronage it so justly receives. They are always on deck to check your baggage from your residence or hotel to all parts of the United States and with equal alacrity handle your merchandise and household goods with care.

DO YOU DYE?

Strange Fads Women Have With Their Hair.

Coloring Changes Almost Like Hat Styles.

How a Woman's Tresses Turned Green by Mistake.

What has become of all the gray brick-red and drab-colored hair commonly seen a few years ago? asks a New York World reporter.

Bleaching and dyeing the hair dates all the way back to the days when Cleopatra commanded her alchemist to prepare something that would change her black hair to a shimmering red. Women have been out with a search light ever since to find some thing which would change the natural color of their hair to one which they like better. But it has only been during the past quarter of a century that the practice has become common.

Several years ago the craze for blonde hair threatened to make the bleached woman the terror of the nineteenth century. In consequence of that craze it is a rare thing today to see a woman's hair which has not many shades. And all as a result of using pryoxide of hydrogen.

A few days ago a reporter spent some hours in one of the fashionable establishments devoted to gratifying women's whims on the subject of their hair. It is a lofty suite of rooms in a big building on Fifth avenue. The reception room, like the parlors devoted to women's complexions is a symphony. The windows are draped with white dimity, while the furnishing is blue denim and white enamel. Great waving palms in blue Doulton jars are distributed with studied indifference. The walls are a cool medley of blue and white designs. White enamel cabinets are filled with bits of blue china.

On the walls in white enamel frames hung pictures of celebrated actresses willing to testify to the satisfactory treatment their own heads have undergone. On either side are mysterious inclosures draped with blue denim, where bashful visitors can consult with the high priestess of the blue and white shrine as to the most becoming shade of hair. Altogether it is a delightfully cool and restful spot. There is just enough of the mysterious about it to appeal to every woman's innate love for that sort of thing.

Passing through a room at one end a suite of operating rooms is reached. Here, on dressing tables draped with white, are innumerable and mysterious bottles—mysterious because they bear no descriptive labels—while the 1, 2 and 3, as they are numbered, are intelligible only to the Titian-headed operators.

But as the hot and anxious customer sinks in a chair that seems to be a succession of luxurious springs she forgets to be anxious. All that she cares to know is that by some mystic process the bleached hair which has become detestable to her, or the gray hair, which shows that she is not as young as she once was, is soon to be restored to its natural color or something more desirable. And of this the attendant constantly assures her.

The high priestess was once upon a time good looking. The most noticeable thing about her today is her hair, which is a shade unknown in the catalogue of color. With the politeness of the spider which invited the fly into its parlor she told the reporter to be seated. Being told that the reporter desired to have a different color of hair from the one bestowed by nature credit is certainly due her for the advice she gave.

'Your hair is neither gray nor dingy, and I would advise you to leave it alone," she said. Then she was called away and the reporter was left to glance around.

A MOTLEY MEDLEY.

The room was filled with women. An interesting feature about the visitors was that the majority of them wore heavy silk veils, although the day was intensely wet. Those having made previous appointments darted out of the elevator and back to the operating rooms with a haste that betokened their fear of recognition. The only names by which the majority of them were called were 'Mrs. Brown,' 'Mrs. Gray,' 'Mrs. White' or 'Mrs. Black.' The greatest secrecy was preserved about their correct names, the operators naming them usually according to the natural color of their hair. A well-known society woman and beauty whose Titian hair is the admiration of her friends was called 'Mrs. Gray.' The inference of the name is ominous.

The process of changing the hair from one color to another is a slow and tedious one, rarely taking less than a day. The hair is divided into thin strands and the various lotions applied to each strand with a tooth brush.

The high priestess had been called to talk with a fine looking woman of about 40 years of age, accompanied by a bright little girl of 11 or thereabouts, with the warmest shade of red hair.

'But I really advise you not to," the high priestess conscientiously remarked.

'I know it," answered the lady, with a look of despair. "But what am I to do? I can do nothing with her. I have promised her a pair of ponies and a carriage if she will only give up the idea. Now do be sensible, Gladys. You hear what this lady advises," turning to her daughter.

"I don't care if you give me the whole city,' was the reply. "I will have my hair dyed or else I will never go to school again. The girls have called me 'Carrots' for the last time." And the young woman looked as though she meant what she said.

'You see, it is no use," said the mother. "She worries me to death, and I suppose she must have it done."

And following the high priestess who shrugged her shoulders expressively the mother and daughter disappeared behind the curtains leading to the operating room.

Around the room were several ladies waiting while samples of their hair were being colored to see if they liked the shade. An attendant with a pair of scissors would cut a strand from their heads in some place where it would not be missed. Then she would disappear. In a quarter of an hour she would reappear with the changed sample.

'Do you really think it will be becoming?" That was the invariable question as the altered sample was laid on the natural hair.

One woman of fifty or more was waiting with an anxious expression on her face. She had just emerged from the operating room, and from the crisp, bright appearance of her hair had just left the operator's hands. A lady about ten years younger stepped out of the elevator. From the resemblance they must have been sisters.

"Do you like it?" anxiously inquired the elder.

"Well, it's your affair, but anyone could see your hair was dyed," was the response.

"Oh, heavens, Jane, don't say that! Oh, what will John and the children say?' exclaimed the first as they stepped into the elevator.

"I suppose you have many curious experiences here," remarked the reporter, as the high priestess re-entered.

GREEN HAIR.

"Most curious and most amusing," was the reply. "Sometimes they are almost tragical. Did you see that young woman in gray who just went out? She came here a week ago with the worst-looking head I ever saw. She has just told me that I have saved her life's happiness. A friend induced her during her husband's absence to have her hair bleached.

"After it was done the woman became frightened about her husband seeing her head on his return. She insisted upon having it dyed. The same person who bleached it dyed it, with the result that antagonistic chemicals turned her hair green. She was in despair, and came in here to see if we could remedy the fearful consequence of her folly the people who had damaged her hair having advised her to cut it off.

"She was like a crazy woman and kept crying, 'You must do something. My husband will be back in a few days and I dare not let him see my hair. He will never accept me. Oh, what shall I do?' Well, to make a long story short after a number of treatments her hair has been restored. When it was over she threw her arms around the operator's neck and said 'I can never thank you enough. You can never know what this means to me.'"

A pompadour white china clock tolled out 6 just as the red-headed girl, transformed into a delightful auburn-haired miss, emerged from the operating rooms. The reporter went down in the elevator with her and her mother.

'Oh, Gladys, if your father discovers it he will be so angry with me," said the mother in an undertone.

"I don't care if he is," was the reply. "All I care for is that the girls can't call me 'Carrots' any more."

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder in Strength and Value 20 Per Cent Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial fairs where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examination for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department of Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best and which has been made public shows the evening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent. greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor and 41 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to lightness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

How the Helena Mines Were Found.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The mines which built the city of Helena in Montana were discovered by a party of four prospectors who were on their way to a well-known camp in the Kootenai country. Learning that the diggers in that quarter had failed, they turned aside to prospect in another direction, and for some time wandered about digging holes here and there, but finding nothing that they considered worth working. About noon of the 15th day of July 1865 they arrived on the site of the city of Helena, halted for dinner and to rest the horses. They had tasted the stream now known as Last Chance creek, but found nothing, and were not disposed to make any further investigation, deeming their labor useless. Dinner over, their horses were saddled when one of their number walked down to the stream to get a drink before mounting. From mere force of habit he began mechanically scratching the gravel with his hands, when, to his astonishment he drew out a nugget as big as a gold dollar. He shouted to the rest, who were already on their way, to return with the pans, and showed them his discovery. At first incredulous, they were disposed to disregard his request, but the sight of the nugget changed their minds. In short order the horses were unsaddled and a hole dug. A hundred dollars' worth of gold was taken out in twenty minutes. It was exactly the place they were looking for. They immediately settled and located claims, and a short time news of their success spread abroad. Hundreds of other miners flocked to the spot and a mining camp of unprecedented richness was established. The city of Helena grew up on the spot, and it is said that one of the banks of that city is situated on a portion of the first claim located by the lucky quartet. It is also said that their names were Cowan, Grab, Miller and Stanley, though to what extent each profited by the discovery is not certain. As a general thing, the men who discover a rich district are not the men who are ultimately enriched by it, and it is possible that in this case the rule held good.

Registration of Women at Chicago.
Chicago Paper.

Six women, chaperoned by an unmarried lady of superfluously doubtful years, entered a registry booth on the West Side. The chaperon was there to do her full and glorious duty in the name of women with a capital W. This could be seen in the drawn lines of her face.

When she held up her right hand to take the oath it was apparent that she considered the worst of the ceremony over. But when the judge confronted her with the question: "Where were you born?" a deadly pallor chased over her features. She felt what was coming, but in a tone of forced bravery replied:

"In Illinois."

Then the doomful interrogation fell:

"How long have you lived in Illinois?"

She wished that she had been born in Cork or Dublin or anywhere along there, but it was of no use. In shaking tones she answered.

"About twenty-five years."

"But, to be exact, how long?" returned the inexorable judge.

"Well, sir, about thirty years."

There was a flicker of resentful fire in this reply.

But still the judge persisted, with malicious conscientiousness:

"Be still more exact, madam!"

"I'm thirty-five years old—and I think you're a mean thing!" burst from her irate lips. She did not wait to see her companions through the fiery ordeal.

A Fraternal Event.

Absit Invidia Rebekah Lodge, No. 11, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will give an entertainment and dance at Enterprise Hall, corner of Twenty-second and Grove streets, Tuesday evening, November 20th, for the benefit of the regalia fund, to which all are most cordially invited. A good time is assured. Admission, 25 cents.

A New French Bicycle Tire.
New York Sun.

A new bicycle tire has just been devised by M. M. Gerard, City Engineer of Bordeaux and Picon, which is intended to do away with the defects of all other tires. It consists in substance of a thin rubber tube whose inner surface is intersected by rubber disks perpendicular to it and placed close to one another; disks and surface are all molded in one piece. The disks are thicker at the circumference than at the center, to prevent the tube from sinking into the interstices between the supports, and they are made eccentric so as to distribute the resisting power of the surface without increasing the weight of the tire. They divide the tire into a very large number of air chambers, perfectly independent of one another, so that if one is pierced the others are not affected; these add to the elasticity of the tire and do not need to be filled with compressed air. The motion is as easy as that of the best pneumatic tires, while the accidents to which pneumatic tires are subject are done away with.

The tire can be applied at once to all rims for solid or hollow tires; for pneumatic tire machines some slight but inexpensive modification of the rim will be necessary.

THE SILENCE CURE.

Do Women Hurt Their Nerves by Talking?

"I have two or three patients who are ill with nervous prostration, and who could be cured if they would stop talking," said a nerve specialist the other day. "They waste their nerve tissue as fast as I can supply it, and they are on the verge of hysterics and acute nervous pain all the time. A woman, if she be inclined to talk too much, should time herself just as she would take medicine, and allow herself only just so many minutes of talk.

"Now, the other day a woman who is troubled with insomnia came in my office for treatment. She had been taking drugs. She told me about her troubles and her tongue ran like the clapper of a farmhouse bell at dinner time. I thought he never would let up. Finally I stopped her.

'Do you talk as much as that very often, madam?' I asked.

'She drew herself up and said in an offended tone, 'This is no laughing matter, doctor, I assure you. I am worn out from lack of sleep, and though my family do all things possible to divert my mind and I make calls and see people all the time, I get steadily worse. I am worn to a shadow. Why last summer——'

'And so her tongue rattled on, until I again tried to stop her.

"'Now listen to my prescription,' I said. 'Go home and keep still. Don't talk. Time your tongue waggings. At breakfast allow your husband to read the newspaper without interruption. After breakfast sew a little in your own room. Read as much as you please. Walk long distances if you are strong enough. Do not make many calls. At dinner talk all you please, but spend a quiet evening. If you go to the theater do not talk much during the play. Exercise a little self-denial. It will be hard at first, for you are a chatterer, but if you persevere you will succeed and your nervous system will get rest.'

'What did she say to that? Well, I do not think she liked it. But if she took me seriously I think I can cure her in a month.

"Do I have many such cases? Well, I should say I did! It is almost safe to declare that there never is a case of real acute nervousness unless the woman is a talker. With a man it is different. He may worry himself into insanity, or complete loss of brain power, if his business goes wrong. But the very nervous woman is seldom a worrier. She is the woman of leisure with a small family—few in numbers I mean—to direct. She buys their food, their clothing, hires the servants and 'keeps house.' She has no real worries. But does she think she has? Oh dear, yes! She thinks she has more to do than any other woman of her acquaintance.

"'Keep quiet a few hours every day and you will be a well woman,' is what I tell half my woman patients. When I can persuade them to try it they come back and say 'Why, doctor, I haven't been nervous enough to fly since I began to try your quiet prescription.'"—New York Sun.

DO YOU DYE?

Strange Fads Women Have With Their Hair.

Coloring Changes Almost Like Hat Styles.

How a Woman's Tresses Turned Green by Mistake.

What has become of all the gray brick-red and drab-colored hair commonly seen a few years ago? asks a New York World reporter.

Bleaching and dyeing the hair dates all the way back to the days when Cleopatra commanded her alchemist to prepare something that would change her black hair to a shimmering red. Women have been out with a search light ever since to find something which would change the natural color of their hair to one which they like better. But it has only been during the past quarter of a century that the practice has become common.

Several years ago the craze for blonde hair threatened to make the bleached woman the terror of the nineteenth century. In consequence of that craze it is a rare thing today to see a woman's hair which has not many shades. And all as a result of using pryoxide of hydrogen.

A few days ago a reporter spent some hours in one of the fashionable establishments devoted to gratifying women's whims on the subject of their hair. It is a lofty suite of rooms in a big building on Fifth avenue. The reception room, like the parlors devoted to women's complexions, is a symphony. The windows are draped with white dimity, while the furnishing is blue demin and white enamel. Great waving palms in blue Doulton jars are distributed with studied indifference. The walls are a cool medley of blue and white designs. White enamel cabinets are filled with bits of blue china.

On the walls in white enamel frames hang pictures of celebrated actresses willing to testify to the satisfactory treatment their own heads have undergone. On either side are mysterious inclosures draped with blue demin, where bashful visitors can consult with the high priestess of the blue and white shrine as to the most becoming shade of hair. Altogether it is a delightfully cool and restive spot. There is just enough of the mysterious about it to appeal to every woman's innate love for that sort of thing.

Passing through a room at one end a suite of operating rooms is reached. Here, on dressing tables draped with white, are innumerable and mysterious bottles—mysterious because they bear no descriptive labels—while the 1, 2, 3 and 4 as they are numbered, are intelligible only to the Titian-headed operators.

But as the hot and anxious customer sinks in a chair that seems to be a succession of luxurious springs she forgets to be anxious. All that she cares to know is that by some mystic process the bleached hair, which has become detestable to her, or the gray hair, which shows that she is not as young as she once was, is soon to be restored to its natural color or something more desirable. And of this the attendant constantly assures her.

The high priestess was once upon a time good looking. The most noticeable thing about her today is her hair, which is a shade unknown in the catalogue of color. With the politeness of the spider which invited the fly into its parlor she told the reporter to be seated. Being told that the reporter desired to have a different color of hair from the one bestowed by nature credit is certainly due her for the advice she gave.

"Your hair is neither gray nor dingy, and I would advise you to leave it alone," she said. Then she was called away and the reporter was left to glance around.

A MOTLEY MEDLEY.

The room was filled with women. An interesting feature about the visitors was that the majority of them wore heavy silk veils, although the day was intensely hot. Those having made previous appointments darted out of the elevator and back to the operating rooms with a haste that betokened their fear of recognition. The only names by which the majority of them were called were "Mrs. Brown," "Mrs. Gray," "Mrs. White," or "Mrs. Black." The greatest secrecy was preserved about their correct names, the operators naming them usually according to the natural color of their hair. A well-known society woman and beauty whose Titian hair is the admiration of her friends was called "Mrs. Gray." The inference of the name is ominous.

The process of changing the hair from one color to another is a slow and tedious one, rarely taking less than a day. The hair is divided into thin strands and the various lotions applied to each strand with a tooth brush.

The high priestess had been called to talk with a fine looking woman of about 40 years of age, accompanied by a bright little girl of 14 or thereabouts, with the warmest shade of red hair.

"But I really advise you not to," the high priestess conscientiously remarked.

"I know it," answered the lady with a look of despair. "But what am I to do? I can do nothing with her. I have promised her a pair of ponies and a carriage if she will only give up the idea. Now, do be sensible, Gladys. You hear what this lady advises," turning to her daughter.

"I don't care if you give me the whole city," was the reply. "I will have my hair dyed or else I will never go to school again. The girls have called me 'Carrots' for the last time." And the young woman looked as though she meant what she said.

"You see, it is no use," said the mother. "She worries me to death, and I suppose she must have it done."

And following the high priestess, who shrugged her shoulders expressively, the mother and daughter disappeared behind the curtains leading to the operating room.

Around the room were several ladies waiting while samples of their hair were being colored to see if they liked the shade. An attendant with a pair of scissors would cut a strand from their heads in some place where it would not be missed. Then she would disappear. In a quarter of an hour she would reappear with the changed sample.

"Do you really think it will be becoming?" That was the invariable question as the altered sample was laid on the natural hair.

One woman of fifty or more was waiting with an anxious expression on her face. She had just emerged from the operating room, and from the crisp, bright appearance of her hair had just left the operator's hands. A lady about ten years younger stepped out of the elevator. From the resemblance they must have been sisters.

"Do you like it?" anxiously inquired the elder.

"Well, it's your affair, but anyone could see your hair was dyed," was the response.

"Oh, heavens, Jane, don't say that! Oh, what will John and the children say?" exclaimed the first as they stepped into the elevator.

"I suppose you have many curious experiences here," remarked the reporter, as the high priestess re-entered.

GREEN HAIR.

"Most curious and most amusing," was the reply. "Sometimes they are almost tragical. Did you see that young woman in gray who just went out? She came here a week ago with the worst-looking head I ever saw. She has just told me that I have saved her life's happiness. A friend induced her during her husband's absence to have her hair bleached.

"After it was done the woman became frightened about her husband seeing her head on his return. She insisted upon having it dyed. The same person who bleached it dyed it, with the result that antagonistic chemicals turned her hair green. She was in despair, and came in here to see if we could remedy the fearful consequence of her folly, the people who had damaged her hair having advised her to cut it off.

"She was like a crazy woman and kept crying, 'You must do something. My husband will be back in a few days and I dare not let him see my hair. He will never accept me. Oh, what shall I do?' Well, to make a long story short, after a number of treatments her hair has been restored. When it was over she threw her arms around the operator's neck and said: 'I can never thank you enough. You can never know what this means to me.'"

A blue and white china clock tolled out 6 just as the red-headed girl, transformed into a delightful auburn-haired miss, emerged from the operating rooms. The reporter went down in the elevator with her and her mother.

"Oh, Gladys, if your father discovers it he will be so angry with me," said the mother in an undertone."

"I don't care if he is," was the reply. "All I care for is that the girls can't call me 'Carrots' any more."

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Royal Baking Powder in Strength and Value 20 Per Cent. Above Its Nearest Competitor.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial fairs where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examination for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department of Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent. greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to flakiness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

How the Helena Mines Were Found.
St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The mines which built the city of Helena in Montana were discovered by a party of four prospectors who were on their way to a well-known camp in the Kootenai country. Learning that the diggers in that quarter had failed, they turned aside to prospect in another direction, and for some time wandered about digging holes here and there, but finding nothing that they considered worth working. About noon of the 15th day of July 1865 they arrived on the site of the city of Helena, halted for dinner and to rest their horses. They had tested the stream now known as Last Chance creek, but found nothing, and were not disposed to make any further investigation, deeming their labor useless. Dinner over, their horses were saddled, when one of their number walked down to the stream to get a drink before mounting. From mere force of habit he began mechanically scratching the gravel with his hands, when, to his astonishment, he drew out a nugget as big as a gold dollar. He shouted to the rest, who were already on their way, to return with the pans, and showed them his discovery. At first incredulous, they were disposed to disregard his request, but the sight of the nugget changed their minds. In short order the horses were unsaddled and a hole dug. A hundred dollars' worth of gold was taken out in twenty minutes. It was exactly the place they were looking for. They immediately settled and located claims, and in a short time news of their success spread abroad. Hundreds of other miners flocked to the spot and a mining camp of unprecedented richness was established. The city of Helena grew up on the spot, and it is said that one of the banks of that city is situated on a portion of the first claim located by the lucky quartet. It is also said that their names were Cowan, Crab, Miller and Stanley, though to what extent each profited by the discovery is not certain. As a general thing, the men who discover a rich district are not the men who are ultimately enriched by it, and it is possible that in this case the rule held good.

Registration of Women at Chicago.
Chicago Paper.

Six women, chaperoned by an unmarried lady of superfluously doubtful years, entered a registry booth on the West Side. The chaperon was there to do her full and glorious duty in the name of women with a capital W. This could be seen in the drawn lines of her face.

When she held up her right hand to take the oath it was apparent that she considered the worst of the ceremony over. But when the judge confronted her with the question: "Where were you born?" a deadly pallor chased over her features. She felt what was coming, but in a tone of forced bravery replied:

"In Illinois."

Then the doomful interrogation fell:

"How long have you lived in Illinois?"

She wished that she had been born in Cork or Dublin or anywhere along there, but it was of no use. In shaking tones she answered:

"About twenty-five years."

"But, to be exact, how long?" returned the inexorable judge.

"Well, sir, about thirty years."

There was a flicker of resentful fire in this reply.

But still the judge persisted, with malicious conscientiousness:

"Be still more exact, madam!"

"I'm thirty-five years old—and I think you're a mean thing!" burst from her irate lips. She did not wait to see her companions through the fiery ordeal.

A New French Bicycle Tire.
New York Sun.

A new bicycle tire has just been devised by M. M. Gerard, City Engineer of Bordeaux and Picon, which is intended to do away with the defects of all other tires. It consists in substance of a thin rubber tube whose inner surface is intersected by rubber disks perpendicular to it and placed close to one another; disks and surface are all molded in one piece. The disks are thicker at the circumference than at the center, to prevent the tube from sinking into the interstices between the supports, and they are made eccentric so as to distribute the resisting power of the surface without increasing the weight of the tire. They divide the tire into a very large number of air chambers, perfectly independent of one another, so that if one is pierced the others are not affected; these add to the elasticity of the tire and do not need to be filled with compressed air. The motion is as easy as that of the best pneumatic tires, while the accidents to which pneumatic tires are subject are done away with.

The tire can be applied at once to all rims for solid or hollow tires; for pneumatic tire machines some slight but inexpensive modification of the rim will be necessary.

THE SILENCE CURE.

Do Women Hurt Their Nerves by Talking?

"I have two or three patients who are ill with nervous prostration, and who could be cured if they would stop talking," said a nerve specialist the other day. "They waste their nerve tissue as fast as I can supply it, and they are on the verge of hysterics and acute nervous pain all the time. A woman, if she be inclined to talk too much, should time herself just as she would take medicine, and allow herself only just so many minutes of talk.

"Now, the other day a woman who is troubled with insomnia came in my office for treatment. She had been taking drugs. She told me about her troubles and her tongue ran like the clapper of a firmhouse bell at dinner time. I thought she never would let up. Finally I stopped her.

"'Do you talk as much as that very often, madam?' I asked.

"She drew herself up and said in an offended tone, 'This is no laughing matter, doctor, I assure you. I am worn out from lack of sleep, and though my family do all things possible to divert my mind and I make calls and see people all the time, I get steadily worse. I am worn to a shadow. Why last summer——'

"And so her tongue rattled on, until I again tried to stop her.

"'Now listen to my prescription,' I said. 'Go home and keep still. Don't talk. Time your tongue waggings. At breakfast allow your husband to read the newspaper without interruption. After breakfast sew a little in your own room. Read as much as you please. Walk long distances if you are strong enough. Do not make many calls. At dinner talk all you please, but spend a quiet evening. If you go to the theater do not talk much during the play. Exercise a little self-denial. It will be hard at first, for you are a chatterer, but if you persevere you will succeed and your nervous system will get rest.'

"What did she say to that? Well, I do not think she liked it. But if she took me seriously I think I can cure her in a month.

"Do I have many such cases? Well, I should say I did! It is almost safe to declare that there never is a case of real acute nervousness unless the woman is a talker. With a man it is different. He may worry himself into insanity, or complete loss of brain power, if his business goes wrong. But the very nervous woman is seldom a worker. "'Keep quiet a few hours every day and you will be a well woman,' is what I tell half my woman patients. When I can persuade them to try it they come back and say 'Why, doctor, I haven't been nervous enough to fly since I began to try your queer prescription.'"—New York Sun.

CURRENT EASTERN COMMENT.

With lambs selling in the Ohio sheep market at 15 cents apiece, the free wool people ought to be satisfied. Or do they insist on two for a quarter accompanied with mint sauce?—New York Advertiser.

From the most reliable sources we ascertain that the Czar is suffering from an acute misunderstanding on the part of his physicians.—Washington Post.

Mr. Gorman has consented to make one speech in the fall campaign. The last time Mr. Gorman made a speech was in the Senate Chamber when he and Jones and Vest were endeavoring to demonstrate the folly of expecting the Democratic party to live up to its pledges. If this is an indication of the sort of speech Mr. Gorman proposes to follow up, it is fortunate for the party that his political engagements are limited.—Kansas City Star.

CURRENT EASTERN COMMENT.

Six hundred policy shops are in full activity in New York—at $100 a month each to the Captain. Tammany collects, therefore, $720,000 a year tribute from policy gambling. The public is beginning to understand the phenomena of the sudden enrichment of Tammany leaders.—New York Commercial Advertiser, Rep.

Everything was fish for the Tammany net. Not even the lemonade stands escaped tribute.—Boston Journal.

The voters of this country are at present confronted by a condition, and they care very little about theories. They know that Democratic tinkering with the tariff has caused hard times, and that hard times have taken money from their pockets and food and clothing from their wives and children. They will, therefore, vote against the party which is responsible for the condition, and no amount of explanation of the theories of free trade and single tax will change the result.—Cleveland Leader.

England is spending a good deal of money in planning a route by which British troops may be swiftly carried to China. The longer European nations plan routes for carrying troops, while the United States continues building roads and ships to carry goods, the better for this nation.—Chicago Times.

Pillar of the church, deacon, Sunday school teacher, no liquors, no cigars, handled the firm's money, $85,000 short. Tombs.—New York Journal.

It is charged that the Texas legislators, in their desire to do something smart against "trade combination," have, in effect, forbidden dealers to either raise or reduce the price of anything—which is nonsense.—Kansas City Star.

The Girl Treasury Clerk.
Philadelphia Times.

Talents of the highest order and blood as blue as the bluest have the women of the Treasury brought to the work, and so changed are the conditions that she no longer comes veiled, ashamed to be seen earning her bread in Uncle Sam's service on account of strange and shady fellow workers, as I am told was actually the case under the rule of old "influence." In those pioneer days a treasury girl was a something suggestive, a somebody that would bear watching; she was an apology. Her work a cloak intended to conceal what everybody saw and knew, so I have been told by the people of that day. Appointees valuing their reputations at that price above rubies crept in through the side doors, and veiled at that, obliged to suffer what they then thought the shame of it, in order to get the crumbs that were demanded for the child of a patriotic sire. But now all these humiliating conditions are changed, thanks to civil service, which shows no favoritism except to brains.

AN UNEXPECTED SPEECH.

How Senator Matt Carpenter Talked to the South.

Should Governor McKinley carry out his half-formed purpose of going down to New Orleans and delivering a Republican speech he will be the only Northern man of prominence who has ever done so since Senator Matt Carpenter of Wisconsin tried the experiment in 1875, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Ex-Senator Carpenter went down to Louisiana by invitation of the citizens of Louisiana issued "without regard to party" (as they said), chiefly because his legal instincts had induced him to unite with Democratic Senators in a minority report upon a political contest in regard to affairs in Louisiana.

Mr. Carpenter arrived in New Orleans and had a big reception. He made a brilliant speech to a crowded house, one of his best efforts. The leading newspapers of New Orleans had stenographic reporters present to report his every utterance. But Mr. Carpenter, instead of giving them the political "taffy" (no other word will adequately express it) to which for years they had been accustomed from their political orators, roundly denounced them for neglecting their material interests, and devoting their whole time to politics. He closed an elegant peroration by telling them to develop their industries, and to "let the (blank) politics slide."

Not a single newspaper in New Orleans printed his speech in full. It was not what they wanted or expected. The sturdy Senator, with the persistency which so strongly marked his character, determined that that speech should go out. He hired a stenographer, took off his coat, and (it was midsummer), paced the floor of his room at the old St. Louis Hotel, and from memory repeated that speech with such accuracy, although he made no notes to guide him, that when this reproduction was afterwards compared with the suppressed shorthand reports, scarcely a divergence could be found. That speech was printed after all, and was widely circulated.

Big Newspaper Circulations in Paris.
Chicago Interior.

In Paris we count about seventy large daily papers and 3000 other periodicals. The Petit Journal leads with a daily circulation of 1,450,000 copies, the Petit Parisian follows with 800,000. The Figaro has the largest circulation of the big dailies, with 120,000. Among the reviews we find the Revue des Deux Mondes (Brunetiere chief editor) and the Nouvelle Revue, which belongs to Mme. Adam (Juliette Lambert). It is very hard to give a fair estimate in number of the Parisian journalists, but according to the census of 1890 not less than 10,000 writers contribute to the newspapers. Journalism is a profession highly respected in France, and every man who has a name in literary, scientific, artistic or political circles is, or has been, a journalist. Vacquerie, the chief editor of the Rappel during the last thirty years, retired lately a seat at the French Academy of Letters, as, he said, the fact of being one of the forty immortals would add nothing to his reputation. And he is not the only man who is satisfied with being a journalist. Francis Magnard, Habrard, Sarcey, Rousset of the Gazette de France (in existence since 1650), Brunetiere, Richepin, Lemaitre, Drummont and many others are of the same opinion.

Talents of the highest order and blood as blue as the bluest have the women of the Treasury brought to the work, and so changed are the conditions that she no longer comes veiled, ashamed to be seen earning her bread in Uncle Sam's service on account of strange and shady fellow workers, as I am told was actually the case under the rule of old "influence." AN UNEXPECTED SPEECH.

How Senator Matt Carpenter Talked to the South.

Should Governor McKinley carry out his half-formed purpose of going down to New Orleans and delivering a Republican speech he will be the only Northern man of prominence who has ever done so since Senator Matt Carpenter of Wisconsin tried the experiment in 1875, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Ex-Senator Carpenter went down to Louisiana by invitation of the citizens of Louisiana issued "without regard to party" (as they said), chiefly because his legal instincts had induced him to unite with Democratic Senators in a minority report upon a political contest in regard to affairs in Louisiana.

Mr. Carpenter arrived in New Orleans and had a big reception. He made a brilliant speech to a crowded house, one of his best efforts. The leading newspapers of New Orleans had stenographic reporters present to report his every utterance. But Mr. Carpenter, instead of giving them the political "taffy" (no other word will adequately express it) to which for years they had been accustomed from their political orators, roundly denounced them for neglecting their material interests, and devoting their whole time to politics. He closed an elegant peroration by telling them to develop their industries, and to "let the (blank) politics slide."

Not a single newspaper in New Orleans printed his speech in full. It was not what they wanted or expected. The sturdy Senator, with the persistency which so strongly marked his character, determined that that speech should go out. He hired a stenographer, took off his coat, and (it was midsummer), paced the floor of his room at the old St. Louis Hotel, and from memory repeated that speech with such accuracy, although he made no notes to guide him, that when this reproduction was afterwards compared with the suppressed shorthand reports, scarcely a divergence could be found. That speeech was printed after all, and was widely circulated.

Big Newspaper Circulations in Paris.
Chicago Interior.

In Paris we count about seventy large daily papers and 3000 other periodicals. The Petit Journal leads with a daily circulation of 1,450,000 copies, the Petit Parisian follows with 800,000. The Figaro has the largest circulation of the big dailies, with 120,000. Among the reviews we find the Revue des Deux Mondes (Brunetiere chief editor) and the Nouvelle Revue, which belongs to Mme. Adam (Juliette Lambert). It is very hard to give a fair estimate in number of the Parisian journalists, but according to the census of 1890 not less than 10,000 writers contribute to the newspapers. Journalism is a profession highly respected in France, and every man who has a name in literary, scientific, artistic or political circles is, or has been, a journalist. Vacquerie, the chief editor of the Rappel during the last thirty years, refused lately a seat at the French Academy of Letters, as, he said, the fact of being one of the forty immortals would add nothing to his reputation. And he is not the only man who is satisfied with being a journalist. Francis Magnard, Heurard, Sorcey, Rousset of the Gazette de France (in existence since 1650), Brunetiere, Richepin, Lemaitre, Drummont and many others are of the same opinion.

Bearing With His Legs.
Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The novelty of a telegraph operator who can scarcely hear a locomotive whistle working day after day at the depot is one of the marvels presented at a branch station near this city. The man is about 28 years old. He has been deaf since he was about 3 years of age as the result of an attack of scarlet fever.

Being so extremely hard of hearing the child's sense of touch was developed to the degree usually possessed by blind persons. The slightest tap upon a table or a wall, the rolling of a wagon wheel along the street and all similar sounds were conveyed to him by the consequent vibrations.

When about twelve years of age he undertook the study of telegraphy. Being a favorite with the operator at his home he was given the run of the office. All the mystic signs, dots and dashes of the profession were explained to him. Day after day he could be seen sitting at the table, with his knees pressed against it or resting his elbow upon it. He was literally feeling the messages as they were ticked off over the wire. Being naturally quick it was but a short time until he was able to correctly read any message coming into the office. Sending came just as easy, and today, after sixteen years' service at the key and sounder, he is just as fine an operator as there is in the country. Of late years his hearing has improved to such an extent that he can easily hear the sounder, but the old habit of listening with his knee or elbow still clings to him, and that is the way all his messages are read.

Amusement for Two.
Pittsburgh Post.

A good story is told of William Swisher, one of the veterans who is present at the Grand Army encampment in Pittsburgh. He was in a Colorado town not long ago without money, but with a great thirst. He was sizing up a saloon outfit from a corner seat when a Westerner invited him to take a drink.

"No," replied Bill deliberately, "I will not drink today."

"Won't you, Mr. Boiled Shirt?" replied the cowboy. "We shall see." Then he turned to the bartender. "Put ten whisky glasses along the bar in a row. Now fill 'em up."

When they were filled he drew a pistol and cocked it.

"Drink down the line," he commanded.

Bill slowly drained each glass. When the last was down he placed it on the counter, set the ten glasses in line and turned to the cowboy.

"Now, mister," said he, "if you have 'em filled again I'll drink my way back."

Effect of the Elections on the Money Market.

The New Congressmen Will Have an Effect.

Public Confidence Will Now Return With Republicanism.

The stir over the elections has of course made things unsteady in the money market, and Henry Clews, the New York banker, writes to THE TRIBUNE as follows:

"The unusual excitement connected with the elections has found its way into Wall street, and to such an extent as to cause some deferment of business until after the vote has been taken. Special interest is felt in the election of Congressmen, from the fact that the composition of the next House of Representatives will go far towards determining how far the new policy tendencies of the party now in power will remain in force. Public sentiment shows a deep interest in questions of banking and currency; an enlargement of bank notes is favored, such issues to be based not upon the present national system of bond guarantee, which has now become positively obstructive to issues, but by a law that would constitute the notes a prior lien upon all the assets of the banks, and which might, under proper safeguards, be made to apply to the State banks as well as the National. The interest felt in Wall street in some such measure of money reform centers mainly in the fact that it would tend to greater stability in the money market and to prevent the spasms of scarity that come almost every fall, and equally the over-supplies of money that depress the rate of interest at other seasons. This is one of the factors affecting the future of investment and speculative operations upon which Wall street will keep a watchful eye.

"What the Stock Exchange interest now needs is some influence that would arouse investors to an earnest estimate of the interest-earning value of the leading stocks at current prices. The present range of market values is extraordinarily low; low compared with the actual present condition of the various properties, still lower compared with the more active business into which the recovery of trade is carrying the roads; and lower still compared with the rates that money is earning in the open market.

The prices for 1893 cover the period following the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act of 1890. The first effect of the repeal was a sharp upward bound in prices; that, however, was followed by an equally sharp decline. Out of twenty-seven stocks only four show any increase over the figures of a year ago. The truest comparison may be made by taking the total of the prices for each year. Thus we find the total for 1893 to be 1792, and for 1894 1590.

This amounts to an average decline within the year of 11.16 per cent. It surely will not be contended that there is any difference in the condition and prospects of the railroads, or in the spirit of trade, or in the tone of public confidence, or in the state of the money market,—to warrant any such adverse difference in the value of securities; on the contrary, all these factors affecting values are in favor of the present situation as compared with that of a year ago. We therefore cannot but regard the present condition of prices as unusually favorable for investment in the stocks of good corporations.

Starr King Reception.

The Starr King Fraternity give a reception complimentary to Miss Ina Griffin, at the Unitarian Church, tomorrow night. It promises to be a most interesting affair, since part of the evening is to be given to music, some of the numbers being rendered by Miss Griffin, who has just returned from a five years' stay abroad. She is to reside hereafter in Oakland with her mother, Mrs. L. R. Griffin. Miss Griffin is to be assisted in her musical programme by Mr. Sigmund Beel and Mrs. Katharine Potter.

James A. Reilly and his strong company are drawing good houses at the People's Theater this week. The German Soldier is one of those bright, spicy pieces that keeps the audience in one perpetual drift of enthusiasm. Several new songs by the sweet singer Mr. Reilly, are introduced and the strength of each artist makes The German Soldier one of the best attractions ever mounted at the People's Theater.

RANDOM NOTES.

In making treaties with China each foreign country has chosen its own name. England is Ying kwo, the flourishing country; France is Fa kwo, the law abiding country; the United States Mei kwo, the beautiful country; Germany, Je kwo, the virtuous country; Italy, I kwo, the country of justice. Japan is Ji kwo, the land of the sun, but she prefers to be called Ji pen, the land of the rising sun.

The Postoffice of Purgatory was established in Virginia in 1892 with George Godbethere as Postmaster.

There is one office in Michigan which is a good deal of a sinecure. It is that of the probate judge of Manitoba county. The present judge has held the office for six years, and during all that time had but one case before him. As his salary is $200 per year that one case has paid him $1200.

The Rochester Democrat and Chronicle tells how the school children of Rochester killed 8,500,000 caterpillars, inspired by the promise of a bounty by the Genesee Valley Forestry Association. It says: "So thoroughly done was the work of gathering the cocoons that the caterpillars have been practically exterminated for the present season, and the trees of the city have been in full and vigorous foliage. The amount paid in prizes this year was $660, and the number of cocoons destroyed was 8,500,000.

A violent discussion is going on in France over the co-education of the sexes, and French public sentiment is much opposed to the attempt to introduce it.

Bearing With His Legs.

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The novelty of a telegraph operator who can scarcely hear a locomotive whistle working day after day at the depot in one of the marvels presented at a branch station near this city. The man is about 28 years old. He has been deaf since he was about 3 years of age as the result of an attack of scarlet fever.

Being so extremely hard of hearing the child's sense of touch was developed to the degree usually possessed by blind persons. The slightest tap upon a table or a wall, the rolling of a wagon wheel along the street and all similar sounds were conveyed to him by the consequent vibrations.

When about twelve years of age he undertook the study of telegraphy. Being a favorite with the operator at his home he was given the run of the office. All the mystic signs, dots and dashes of the profession were explained to him. Day after day he could be seen sitting at the table, with his knees pressed against it or resting his elbow upon it. He was literally feeling the messages as they were ticked off over the wire. Being naturally quick it was but a short time until he was able to correctly read any message coming into the office. Sending came just as easy, and today, after sixteen years' service at the key and sounder, he is just as fine an operator as there is in the country. Of late years his hearing has improved to such an extent that he can easily hear the sounder, but the old habit of listening with his knee or elbow still clings to him, and that is the way all his messages are read.

Amusement for Two.

Pittsburgh Post.

A good story is told of William Swisher, one of the veterans who is present at the Grand Army encampment in Pittsburgh. He was in a Colorado town not long ago without money, but with a great thirst. He was sizing up a saloon outfit from a corner seat when a Westerner invited him to take a drink.

"No," replied Bill deliberately, "I will not drink today."

"Won't you, Mr. Boiled Shirt?" replied the cowboy. "We shall see." Then he turned to the bartender. "Put ten whisky glasses along the bar in a row. Now fill 'em up."

When they were filled he drew a pistol and cocked it.

"Drink down the line," he commanded.

Bill slowly drained each glass. When the last was down he placed it on the counter, set the ten glasses in line and turned to the cowboy.

"Now, mister," said he, "if you have 'em filled again I'll drink my way back."

Effect of the Elections on the Money Market.

The New Congressmen Will Have an Effect.

Public Confidence Will Now Return With Republicanism.

The stir over the elections has of course made things unsteady in the money market, and Henry Clews, the New York banker, writes to THE TRIBUNE as follows:

"The unusual excitement connected with the elections has found its way into Wall street, and to such an extent as to cause some deferment of business until after the vote has been taken. Special interest is felt in the election of Congressmen, from the fact that the composition of the next House of Representatives will go far towards determining how far the new policy tendencies of the party now in power will remain in force. Public sentiment shows a deep interest in questions of banking and currency; an enlargement of bank notes is favored, such issues to be based not upon the present national system of bond guarantee, which has now become positively obstructive to issues, but by a law that would constitute the notes a prior lien upon all the assets of the banks, and which might, under proper safeguards, be made to apply to the State banks as well as the National. The interest felt in Wall street in some such measure of money reform centers mainly in the fact that it would tend to greater stability in the money market and to prevent the spasms of scarity that come almost every fall, and equally the over-supplies of money that depress the rate of interest at other seasons. This is one of the factors affecting the future of investment and speculative operations upon which Wall street will keep a watchful eye.

"What the Stock Exchange interest now needs is some influence that would arouse investors to an earnest estimate of the interest-earning value of the leading stocks at current prices. The present range of market values is extraordinarily low; low compared with the actual present condition of the various properties, still lower compared with the more active business into which the recovery of trade is carrying the roads; and lower still compared with the rates that money is earning in the open market.

The prices for 1893 cover the period following the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman act of 1890. The first effect of the repeal was a sharp upward bound in prices; that, however, was followed by an equally sharp decline. Out of twenty-seven stocks only four show any increase over the figures of a year ago. The truest comparison may be made by taking the total of the prices for each year. Thus we find the total for 1893 to be 1702, and for 1894 1590.

This amounts to an average decline within the year of 11.16 per cent. It surely will not be contended that there is any difference in the condition and prospects of the railroads, or in the spirit of trade, or in the tone of public confidence, or in the state of the money market,—to warrant any such adverse difference in the value of securities; on the contrary, all these factors affecting values are in favor of the present situation as compared with that of a year ago. We therefore cannot but regard the present condition of prices as unusually favorable for investment in the stocks of good corporations.

Starr King Reception.

The Starr King Fraternity give a reception complimentary to Miss Ina Griffin, at the Unitarian Church, tomorrow night. It promises to be a most interesting affair, since part of the evening is to be given to music, some of the numbers being rendered by Miss Griffin, who has just returned from a five years' stay abroad. She is to reside hereafter in Oakland with her mother, Mrs. L. R. Griffin. Miss Griffin is to be assisted in her musical programme by Mr. Sigmund Beel and Mrs. Katharine Potter.

The People's.

James A. Reilly and his strong company are drawing good houses at the People's Theater this week. The German Soldier is one of those bright, spicy pieces that keeps the audience in one perpetual drift of enthusiasm. Several new songs by the sweet singer Mr. Reilly, are introduced, and the strength of each artist makes The German Soldier one of the best attractions ever mounted at the People's Theater.

RANDOM NOTES.

In making treaties with China each foreign country has chosen its own name. England is Ying kwo, the flourishing country; France is Fa kwo, the law-abiding country; the United States Mei kwo, the beautiful country; Germany, De kwo, the virtuous country; Italy I kwo, the country of justice. Japan is Ji kwo, the land of the sun, but she prefers to be called Ji pen, the land of the rising sun.
